

Homecoming Day Alabama College Saturday, Oct. 15

Annual Event Planned For Fun and Informality in Programs This Year

Invitations to the annual homecoming celebration at Alabama College this year October 15, will be sent out next week to nearly 4,000 former students of the institution, according to Miss Frances Ribble, alumnae secretary.

Large representations are expected from four classes, 1908, 1918, 1928 and 1938—whose reunion this is. Heading these four groups will be their original class presidents, Mrs. L. W. Rainey, the former Willie Jenkins; Mrs. D. C. Studdard (Jessie Dean); Miss Ruby Worth and Miss Frances Cumbee.

Homecoming this year has been planned for fun and informality, Miss Ribble announces. The program and business meeting will be held in Palmer Hall at 10 a. m., after which there will be a picnic dinner on the campus.

At 2:30 p. m. the delegates from alumnae groups in various parts of the state will meet for discussion of organization plans. A tea in honor of the guests will be given in Main Residence Hall at 3:30, and supper will be served at 6 p. m.

An exhibit of college archives containing many interesting photographs and souvenirs of the early days in Montevallo is to be offered in the foyer of Palmer Hall.

Officers of the Alumnae Association are Mrs. S. R. Gibbons, president; and Mrs. Ralph Quinn, vice-president, both of Birmingham; Miss Ribble, secretary, and Miss Ethel Harris, treasurer, of Montevallo.

Missionary Society To Meet October 14

Circle No. 1 of the Methodist Missionary Society will meet the 14th of this month instead of the 10th as originally scheduled.

Beginning the 10th, a mission study class, "The American Church in the City," will be held at the home of Mrs. O. R. Burns. These meetings will be held at two o'clock each afternoon from Monday through Friday. All members are urged to attend.

Miss Jean Forrest and J. Hansel Brown Married in Birmingham Monday

Miss Jean Forrest was married to J. Hansel Brown at 10:30 Monday morning at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Forrest, 1116 Elm St. S. Dr. W. A. Alexander, pastor of South Highlands Presbyterian Church, read the vows in the presence of relatives and intimate friends.

Tall standards of white gladioli and fern formed the background for the ceremony. White tapers burned in floor candelabra. Nuptial music was furnished by Mrs. S. J. Knecht, pianist, and Mrs. John Flemister, violinist.

Miss Gail Forrest, youngest sister of the bride, was her only attendant. She wore a dress of tea blue with matching accessories. Her flowers were pink roses and baby breath.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a tunic dress of moss green crepe. Her shoulder corsage was of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Wyman Brown, of Montevallo, only brother of the groom, was best man.

The bride's parents entertained with a reception immediately after the ceremony. Mrs. Forrest wore a dress of dubonnet crepe with hat and accessories in matching shades. Her corsage was of talisman roses.

Mission Study Class Begins Next Monday

The Methodist Missionary Society of the Methodist Church will spend an hour and a half each day for five days, beginning Monday, October 10, in the study of their new book, "The American Church and its Church." Dr. Kincheloe, M. A., Ph. D., author of the book, has been a lecturer and teacher in the field of sociology. He is also associate director of research and survey for the Chicago Congregational Research. He is the author of numerous articles on the city church, and has recently contributed one of a series of social science monographs on religion in the depression.

The average city is a mission field. In studying the problem the church faces, it is hoped, an interest in them that may be stimulated and a new understanding of them acquired, and that the group may achieve a more earnest desire to help in their solution.

An invitation is extended to all members of the society, and to others who may be interested, to attend this series of studies.

District Meeting, Home Economics Leaders

Officials of the Alabama Home Economics Association expect a strong representation from Shelby County at the District Five Meeting to be held Saturday, October 8, here at Alabama College.

Among those expected to attend are the teachers of general and vocational home economics, home demonstration agents, home security workers, women in business, homemakers and dietitians.

The morning program will begin at 10 o'clock in Bloch Hall. Speakers will include Mrs. Augusta Sledge, Birmingham, state supervisor of non-construction projects, of the NYA, who will tell of the Shelby County NYA Residential Project, and W. F. Tidwell, Montevallo, who will discuss the Shelby County Survey of home conditions.

Mrs. Gladys McKain Muncus, Birmingham, state president, and Mrs. Marion Spidle, Auburn, vice-president, also will take part in the program.

Counties in District five are Jefferson, Shelby, Chilton, Talladega, St. Clair, Clay, Blount, and Walker.

Mr. P. M. Cain, Jr., a student at Auburn, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Cain, Sr.

Miss Willie Gould spent the week-end with relatives in Birmingham.

The heart-shaped wedding cake formed the centerpiece for the bride's table, which was covered with a lace cloth.

Immediately after the reception Mr. and Mrs. Brown left for a two weeks wedding trip, which will include a visit to New Orleans and other points on the Gulf Coast. For traveling Mrs. Brown wore a tailored suit of black serge with a cape of silver fox. Her accessories were also of black.

The bride is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest. She is a graduate of Phillips High School and Alabama College at Montevallo, where she completed work for her B. S. degree in sociology in 1936. She has held a responsible position with the staff of the Department of Public Welfare in St. Clair County for the past two years. Her family connections are prominent and distinguished. She is descended maternally from the Morris and Reynolds families of Pennsylvania and on the paternal side, from the Bloom and Forrest families of Iowa.

Mr. Brown is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Brown, of Montevallo, where the family is prominent in civic, business and political activities. He is a graduate of Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn. He is president of Alabama Coaches Co., Inc.

'Scuse It, Please

While The Times proofreader was deeply embedded in a radio Wednesday afternoon listening to the World Series baseball game I printed the paper without proof-reading. Hence a number of errors in the print, which you perhaps will observe.

Excuse me please. The boss just had to pull for Gabby and the Cubs—who came out just about as bad as his own neglected proofs.

Yours truly,

Men's Bible Class Will Meet At Strand Sunday

The Men's Bible Class will meet at the Strand Theatre at 10 a. m. next Sunday.

At this meeting it will be determined whether or not the class will continue to meet and keep up its organization. There has been a vacation some months during the summer and it is hoped that a large group will meet next Sunday.

The class has been in regular existence for 16 years. Come next Sunday and let us decide upon future plans.—Luther E. Shaw, Pres.

G. W. Shaw Died At Home in Birmingham

Mr. George Washington Shaw, age 72 years, died at his home in Birmingham Sunday morning. Mr. Shaw had been in ill health for some time. He was a native of Shelby County, his home being in the Westover community.

The funeral was held at the Union Methodist Church near Westover, Monday, at 2:30 p. m., with Presiding Elder Eddings and Rev. Blackmon officiating.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Sarah Shaw; five sons, P. B. Shaw and E. E. Shaw, of Birmingham; C. H. Shaw of Chelsea, and W. F. and Hugh Shaw of Columbiana; two daughters, Mrs. F. O. Moore, Bessemer; and Mrs. Clyde M. Gardner of Montevallo; one brother, J. W. Shaw; one sister, Mrs. Deeva Henderson and a number of grandchildren.

Mr. Shaw's grandsons acted as pallbearers: Clyde Gardner, Jr., Pharris Shaw, Jr., Cecil Shaw, Jr., Earl Shaw and Payne Shaw.

Those attending the funeral from here were Mr. Ed Hooker, Miss Sallie Hooker, Dr. Fred B. Pearson, Mrs. R. E. Galloway, Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Moore, Mr. Mitch Evans and Mr. and Mrs. Mack Dennis.

ROBBERY AT WHITE HARDWARE MONDAY NIGHT

Burglars entered the store of White Hardware Company Monday night and lifted about 100 pocket knives and two rifles.

Entry was gained through a ventilating window. Evidences showed that the theft was committed by boys.

Business Women Go To Meeting In Birmingham

In response to a call from the state president, Mrs. Carrie K. Andrews, the newly appointed state committee chairmen of the Alabama Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs met her in an all day session in Birmingham, Sunday, September 25, at the Tutwiler Hotel. The purpose was to enable committee members to get acquainted with one another and to become familiar with the outlines from the work of each committee on the new theme for the year, "My Business and Yours." The clubs in the Alabama Federation of Business and Professional Women will follow this theme along with their sister clubs in 1,600 towns throughout the nation.

Those in attendance were Mrs. L. H. Gregory, Fairfield, State International Relations Chairman; Mrs. Maude Clements, Fairfield, State Program Coordinator; Mrs. Willie Averitt, Jasper State Membership Chairman; Miss Josephine Cleveland, Birmingham, State Publicity Chairman; Mrs. Nannie R. Nash, Birmingham, State Legislation Chairman; Dr. Hallie Farmer, Montevallo, State Education Chairman.

Other state chairmen who have been appointed, but were unavoidably prevented from attending are: Mrs. Dolly Scruggs, Guntersville, Finance Chairman; Miss Ressa Hendricks, Cullman, Publications Chairman; Miss Floy Boen, Gadsden, State Emblem Chairman; Miss Jennie Ray, Sylacauga, Public Affairs Chairman; Mrs. Troy Springer, Tuscaloosa, Editor State Bulletin; Miss Vernon Clarke, Tuscaloosa, Chairman of Efficiency Standard.

Mrs. Andrews appointed a new committee to assist with transportation plans for the biennial convention at Kansas City in July and also post convention trips. The committee consists of Mrs. Janie Ballard, Birmingham, chairman; Miss Eloise Martin, Montgomery; and Mrs. Ellyn Beatty, Mobile.

Dr. Minnie Steckel, Montevallo, was chosen chairman of the committee for legislative research on the plan of work for Equal Rights Amendment.

It was announced that District No. 1, with Cullman as hostess, will meet at Bangor Cave for their district meeting, at which time the newly appointed field worker, Mrs. Ruth McInnis, will be present. The meeting will be held October 16.

Montevallo Has Easy Win Over Verbena

Montevallo ran more or less roughshod over a scrappy but light Verbena eleven here Friday, September 30, to win 25-0.

Montevallo scored first in the second quarter. Cahoon passed to Brown and Lovelady scored on an end run. Montevallo failed to convert. Lovelady tallied again on an end run in the third quarter and Williamson put the ball neatly between the goal posts for the extra point. Also in the third period Dement made a line plunge for a long gain and Brown took the ball over. The kick was not good. In the fourth quarter Dement passed to Williamson who went over the goal line for the fourth touchdown of the game.

The local team plays West Blocton and Centerville on October 7 and 14, respectively. These are the first games played away from home and both of them will be under the floodlights.

Miss Mary Hilda Peters spent the week-end with friends in Birmingham.

CLERKS' LOCAL MEETS

The Retail Clerks' Union, Local 185, met Tuesday night and had the largest attendance of any meeting in many months. A convention spirit prevailed all through the meeting. The new officers seem to have met with the approval of the members one hundred per cent. All clerks are welcome to our next regular meeting.

Miss M. Frost Tuesday Night

Prominent Spring Creek Citizen; Former Member Board of Revenue, Passes Away At Home

Mr. Joshua Mitchell Frost, age 75, prominent farmer and citizen of the Spring Creek community, died Tuesday night at his home, after an illness of only a few hours.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. T. K. Roberts, of Columbiana, at the home Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Burial was at Montevallo Cemetery, with Walton directing. Masonic rites were performed at the grave.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Janie Hayden Frost; three sons, Bernie L., of Birmingham; J. Robert, of Spring Creek; Fred H., of Montevallo; one daughter, Mrs. Ollie Taft, Montevallo; one brother, T. W. Frost, of Birmingham.

Mr. Frost was a native of Shelby County and had lived in Spring Creek community for the past 34 years. He was a member of the Methodist Church, and had been a Mason for 53 years. At the time of his death he was affiliated with the Masonic Lodge at Calera.

Mr. Frost was widely known throughout the county, and he was held in high esteem by a vast number of people who were his friends. He served for eight years as a member of the County Board of Revenue. In this capacity he came into contact with many people of the county. His public service always was efficient, constructive, and was rendered with a patriotic sincerity which was in keeping with the noble principle of his personal and private life.

Three Girls Hurt In Automobile Accident

Three 19-year-old girls were injured, two of them seriously, early Friday night, when they were struck by an automobile at a street intersection in Birmingham. The injured girls were Lucy Chew, Christine Lawley and Maud Seals. A. B. Cordell told police he was driver of the car that struck the girls. Cordell was placed under $300 bond pending outcome of the girl's condition.

The injured were taken to a hospital for treatment. Miss Seals has already been discharged and gone home. Miss Lawley, who, it is said, was most seriously injured, will have to remain in the hospital for several days yet.

METHODIST CHURCH

Next Sunday morning the Rev. M. M. Davidson, the presiding elder of the Tuscaloosa District, will preach at the Methodist Church. In the afternoon the fourth quarterly conference of the current conference year will be held. This is an important conference as it is the last to be held before the meeting of the annual conference which will convene in Anniston early in November. All members are urged to be present.

Dr. Davidson has gained a notable popularity as a preacher all over the North Alabama Conference. The public is cordially invited to hear him Sunday morning.

Shelby County Students At State University

At least 10 students from Shelby County have enrolled at the University of Alabama for the fall semester, according to nearly complete records.

They are: From Montevallo, Laura Elliott, Gene Lewis, and Norris Zane Nathews; from Columbiana, Conrad Murphree Fowler, and Wales Wallace; from Helena, Luther Nunally; from Newala, Julian P. Hardy, and William Taylor Hordy; from Vincent, Thomas Jefferson Florey; from Maylene, Norman Mayor.

Mark Tucker

Newspaper circles in Alabama, as well as political an otherwise, are interested in the announcement that Billy Smith has sold the Chilton County News, at clanton, to Mark Tucker.

Billy, it is said, has taken a job in the United States Government service. Thereby, Alabama weekly journalism has lost one of its most energetic and colorful figures.

On the other hand, the return of Mark Tucker to the newspaper game gives back to our clan one of the old "warhorses" of the game. Mark got out of active newspaper work some years ago. He has had a long, and we hope, successful fling at politics. Now his friends welcome him back into the newspaper fraternity.

Mark will keep the Chilton County News up among the good newspapers of Alabama, where it has been placed by the energy, ability, and enthusiasm of its foremr publisher.

Some of the youthful flash and color of the former management will be replaced by the cool temper and mature experience of the veteran Mr. Tucker. This, we expect, will not be unwelcome to the great family of readers who want a good newspaper in The News, and, withal, a newspaper they can swear by.

Good luck to you, Billy—and to you, Mark, strength to your good right arm.

President Albert Keller

Educators of Alabama expressed gratification last week when they had permanently added to their group Dr. James Albert Keller, as president of the State Teachers College at Florence.

There is reason to be gratified in this instance—much reason. The place is an important one in Alabama education. Moreover, the man who takes the place is a man of superb ability, and broad, comprehensive training.

As president of Florence, Dr. Keller will supply a vast influence for good in the direction of educational progress in Alabama. We sincerely hope his able service may be extended far into the future by a long and vigorous life.

Buy Wisely

"Buy the things you want and can afford to have." That is the thought expressed in a fine editorial printed recently in the Mansfield, Ohio, News-Journal.

"There's too much inactive money," the editorial says. "There has been postponement of buying clothing, furniture, floor covering, draperies, electrical conveniences of various kinds—as well as numberless other large and small items.

"Construction of new homes, or remodeling of old ones, has been put off. . . .

"Out-dated automobiles have been continued in use by motorists who can well afford a new car.

"All of these things have contributed to the general slow-down of industry and business—thus encouraging the reign of fear that has engulfed so much of the nation. . . .

"Money is of no earthly goode—except for use!

"Earn, spend, save," is a formula under which individual and national progress is assured."

The man who spends less than his means would normally dictate, is as much of a burden on the country as the man who continually spends more than he can afford. This country possesses an almost limitless market for commodities of all kinds. We need more homes, more cars, more roads, more farm and factory machinery, more clothing, more labor-saving devices in home and industry. It is purchase of things such as these that make new jobs, new purchasing power, higher national income, and greater opportunity for both capital and labor.

Spend wisely and frugally. Keep your budget balanced. Don't get yourself in the hole. But always remember that sound spending is vital to the maintenance of our standard of living, to the advancement of recovery, and to the ultimate attainment of prosperity.

Items From The Records

According to the monthly bulletin of the Alabama Industrial Board, there was shipped out of the state lumber products to the amount of $43,362,225. This brought into Alabama twice as much as all the cotton shipped out of the state.

There are 68 non-alcoholic beverage establishments in Alabama and the value of their products in 1935 was estimated at $49,607.77. The cost of the material used in their production was given at $18,958.52.

In 1935 there were 39,626 wage earners employed in the textile mills and in the manufacture of textile products in Alabama. The average yearly wages paid was $581.99.

P. O. Davis, state extension director, said the recent Fat Hog Show and Sale at Columbus, Georgia, at which Russell County farmers and 4-H club members won $216 in prizes and received $2,985.65 from the sale of their hogs was only one example of the progress Alabama is making toward putting hog production on a paying basis on more farms. In addition, 90 per cent of the approximately 500 hogs were high quality animals.

An economical method of protecting farm buildings and foundations of the home and barn from termites and decay is the use of either crude or refined creosote, advises H. W. Dearing, assistant agricultural engineer of the Alabama Extension Service.

Mrs. M. V. Bell, president of the Grady Home Demonstration Club in Montgomery County believes she has some sort of record on mattress making. She had cotton picked on the farm Monday morning, ginned Monday afternoon, made into a mattress on Tuesday, and slept on the mattress Tuesday night.

"In considering what may be the 'proper' functions of the federal government we have to take a broader view than our ancestors did, but in doing so we should take into consideration the spheres that the American spirit and form of government reserve to the individual and to the individual states. If we can do this wisely, we may be able to add to the necessary powers of the federal government and yet avoid the dangers of concentrated power and a totalitarian state. I see no other way of escape."—James Truslow Adams.

"No one but a malefactor is ever afraid of a government of laws. Everyone is afraid of a government of men, and with reason. It is the honest, industrious, and well-disposed who have the greatest reason to be afraid of it, for they are the most acutely conscious of their helplessness. Despoiled of initiative, they become apathetic, demoralized, pursued by a nagging sense of outrage and indecency, and the general consequence is an incurable progressive debility in every department of life."—Albert Jay Nock.

THE OTHER Editor's Viewpoint

From the Press of the State

LORD, I APOLOGIZE!

Lord, I was blue and discouraged this morning, but it is different this afternoon, and I want to apologize for feeling that way. This morning I thought there was ample reason for an attack of the blues. My bank account had gathered its folds about it and departed into a far country. The installment on my car was past due, and I had no money with which to pay it. My insurance was in bad shape for non-payment of premiums. Necessity has been forcing me to work hard and long for many years at a salary much less than I know myself to be worth. This morning it seemed that some of my friends were growing distant and cold. Then, too, the cook didn't show up at our house, and my wife was so busy helping me with my job that the question of lunch was uncertain. Somehow in my shaving this morning I turned the razor too sharply inward, and my face felt like a peeled onion must feel when it is first taken from the warm earth and its protective covering removed. On top of that I didn't get enough sleep last night because I had to work so late. I got up thinking about notes coming due all too soon, accounts that were old and covered with moss. This morning it seemed that everybody demanded that I pay them, and that nobody felt any obligation to pay me what they owed. Until nearly noon I kept sinking deeper and deeper into the quicksand of despair and self-pity.

Then I walked up the street and happened to see an elderly lady—terribly afflicted. An eating cancer had literally destroyed her nose. She was looking for the welfare officer. No doubt she had suffered many days, weeks and months in an agony which I could only imagine. Many times in the middle of dark and sleepless nights her cry for relief must have winged its way into the mysterious ether of the universe about us. And also, just as certain, seems the fact that she will suffer yet many days to come. I thought: How sweet death must seem in such bitter affliction. But so far as I observed she was not railing against an unkind fate.

It is not given me to understand why human beings are sometimes brought to such a condition of suffering in this life, but my heart was deeply touched with pity and compassion. #### Fool Printers

Come on, all you job printers, and rally round; here's something to think about.

The next time we need a hat, a coat, a pair of trousers or a shirt, let's call up a merchant and have him send a salesman out to bid against others for the business.

In fact, we could call several merchants and have all of them send salesmen with sharp pencils to cut each other's prices to the bone. That is what we fool printers do all the time.

The salesmen from the various stores could bring their samples with them. We could try on a shirt, a pair of trousers or a pair of socks and if we didn't like the goods, well, the other man might have something better — or cheaper.

We could have pastries, cakes, soft drinks and candies sent up to us with a bid. We could taste them all and then take our pick.

Then we could have the doctors, dentists, surgeons and beauty shop operators all bid for business. It would do our souls good to see them when their prices were torn to bits by some outsider who didn't even live in our city.

It would be a terrible day and would almost start a war. The idea is worth trying, however, and The Montgomery Weekly would be glad to print the battling averages of the various contestants.

A big fat merchant would mop his brow and grumble at losing the sale of a necktie. The candymaker would lose his profits furnishing samples, for all the family would be entitled to a taste before closing the deal and paying over the cash. It would indeed be a topsy-turvy world.

This article is written to show the job printers how foolish they look to the outsiders. No one is to blame for the terrible overhead expense of sales but the printers themselves.

Think of curb service, that is nothing. A fool printer will get in his car and drive fifteen miles just to get a chance to bid against the cockeyed world on a ten dollar job.

There is an old saying about the worm that turned. But you see, some worms haven't that much courage.—The Montgomery Weekly.

Remember when flour was sold in barrels and half barrels and you had to haul it home yourself, you are an old timer.—The Greensboro Watchman.

In a ball game between colored teams up north the other day, one of the players slid into home plate and lacerated his uniform in a critical place. The game was called on account of darkness.—Citronelle Call.

No doubt the end was in sight anyway.

Chicken Laid

One of the strangest freaks the writer ever saw was brought in last week from the home of Mrs. Guy Litsey. It was a chicken laid by a hen that had not been setting, but was a laying hen. Mr. Litsey says the hen began to cluck at once after the egg was laid. In the egg was a well developed chicken, perfectly formed except the head was only outlined. The chick had down on it, as if it had been hatched in the regular way.—Alexander City Outlook.

We suppose you saw this, Cody. Well, we didn't.

Newspapers are publishing articles by a doctor who tells people "what to eat." Will that doctor kindly tell people how to get "What to eat?"—Jasper Mountain Eagle.

Sufficient activity in the form of work to digest these "what-to-eat" foods, would eliminate the question of "where to get" "what to eat."

Study Club Meeting

The Montevallo Study Club held its regular meeting Wednesday, September 28, at the home of Mrs. Milton Jeter, with Mrs. M. P. Jeter, Jr., as co-hostess.

Interesting reports from the committee chairmen were given. Mrs. F. Givhan announced a rummage sale to be held at an early date. An interesting report on the paving project and the club committee work on this project was given by Mrs. E. P. Hood. Mrs. Presley Jeter gave a very interesting report of the activities of the Birth Control Clinic during the summer. Mrs. W. J. Kennerly gave a short talk on the constitution, which was followed by the semi-annual parliamentary drill by Mrs. G. T. Towery.

A delightful social hour followed the program. Members present at this meeting were: Mesdames G. T. Towery, E. P. Hood, E. H. Wills, R. P. Holcomb, W. J. Kennerly, W. L. Gravlee, M. W. Fancher, F. P. Givhan, N. E. Phillips, G. P. Rogan, W. F. Tidwell, L. C. Parnell and the hostesses, Mrs. Milton Jeter and Mrs. M. P. Jeter, Jr.

Farm News From the State Extension Service Bureau

ASSIGNMENT OF AAA PAYMENTS POSSIBLE

Auburn, Ala. — Opportunity for every Alabama farmer to adopt the soil building practices needed on his farm is afforded by a plan whereby the farmer assigns part of his 1938 AAA payments to bankers, farmers' exchanges or merchants in exchange for seed and fertilizer this fall, announces J. D. Samford, farm finance specialist of the Alabama Extension Service.

This plan, already functioning in practically every county of the state, allows farmers to get seed, phosphate, or basic slag, or terraces for his land without any cash outlay on his part, according to Mr. Samford. Bankers, merchants and the various county farmers' exchanges have entered enthusiastically into the movement because they realize that farmers may desire to adopt these needed practices but cannot afford to release the cash money at the present time.

They also realize that by assisting farmers to adopt these practices that approximately $60,000 will be received in the county and that the improved crop production, more and better pastures, and increased production of livestock from more feedstuffs will mean more money for farmers and better business in the future, according to Mr. Samford, who has been working with the various agencies on this plan for several weeks.

Among the practices to be covered by this arrangement are planting and fertilizing, with basic slag or phosphate, winter legumes, establishing and fertilizing permanent pastures, terracing, and other practices. Farmers are advised to contact their county agent for details of the plan and the local sponsors of the assignment of payments for seed and fertilizer.

Cotton Mills Aid In Bagging Differential

Auburn, Ala.—Seven and one-half pounds will be the extra weight added to bales of cotton covered with three-fourths standard cotton bagging by seventy of the leading cotton mills, P. O. Davis, State Extension director, has been advised by the Cotton Textile Institute.

This is being done to equalize the weights between bales covered with cotton bagging and those wrapped in jute bagging. Cotton has been sold on a gross weight basis, and as jute bagging weighs more than does cotton bagging, many planters preferred the latter as they received payment on the jute bagging at the same rate for which the cotton was sold.

ALABAMA FUR PELTS

Thousands of Alabama farm youths earn money during the winter trapping season by catching, preparing and selling the skins of the raccoon, opossum, fox, rabbit and other fur-bearing animals. Many adults also earn a living or augment their income by trapping. The annual turnover of pelts in Alabama amounts to a considerable sum. To assist the farm boy and trapper in obtaining more money for pelts, to increase the value of the fur crop, and to secure uniformity in handling fur skins in Alabama, an interesting article on the preparation of pelts from Alabama animals has been prepared by Fred S. Barkalow, Jr., of the Auburn zoology-entomology department. This article will be printed in full in the November 1 issue of the Alabama Game and Fish News, along with several illustrations showing proper ways to clean and stretch skins. The fur-trapping season in Alabama opens December 1, and the article will be available to the public long before that date. Copies may be obtained by writing the Conservation Department, Montgomery, after November 1.

John M. Stephens, son of J. M. Stephens of Montevallo, has gone to Chillicothe, Mo., where he re-enrolled Monday, September 26, at the Chillicothe Business College for the completion of his commercial and machine bookkeeping training.

Ruffin Advises the Storing Of Sweet Potatoes In Early Fall

Auburn, Ala.—It is no laughing matter that many Alabama farmers spend time and effort during the summer raising sweet potatoes for food and feed in winter and then because of improper curing and storing the potatoes ruin, advises W. A. Ruffin, specialist in horticulture, in offering suggestions to farm people for saving the yams.

Essentials of successful storage of sweet potatoes are that they be mature, dug before frost, carefully handled, well dried, or cured, and kept at the proper temperature when stored.

Digging of potatoes is the least important but rough handling while being dug will cause potatoes to decay in much the same manner as apples. Best practice, says Ruffin, is to place the tubers in a padded crate when digging them instead of throwing them in piles. Before entering storage they should be cured or dried out thoroughly.

Plenty of sunshine is best for curing but otherwise a warm place near a chimney or a shed or room where a temperature of 80 to 85 degrees may be maintained for ten days to two weeks is needed. Farmers who do not have curing houses may put the potatoes in crates and stack them in the chicken house brooder house, allowing space between crates so they may get plenty of air circulation.

Circulation of air and fairly warm temperature are important for proper drying out of the potatoes before they are put into storage. The storage temperature should be about 55 to 60 degrees but where it is impossible to place them in storage and maintain this temperature they should be placed in the cellar or a relatively tight building and covered with hay, shucks, or straw as a protection from cold weather.

4-H CLUB EXHIBITS CALVES AT STATE FAIR

The Shelby County 4-H Calf Club exhibited nine dairy calves at the State Fair in Birmingham during the week of September 26.

These boys made a very creditable showing with their calves. Four of the eight heifers won placings in the show. Carl Bailey's calf was placed second in the senior calf class and fifth in the open class for calves, and Jimmie Rogers' calf was placed sixth in this class. In the senior heifer class, John Pool's calf won fifth place. The county exhibit was placed seventh in the state.

The Shelby County judging team won fifth place in the state, with John Paul Poole of Helena taking third place in the state; the team was composed of John Pool, Wilbert Anderson and Wayne Lauderdale. —W. M. Clark, 4-H Club Agent.

4-H CALF CLUB ORGANIZATION MEETING

The Shelby County 4-H Calf Club held its organization meeting on September 24 at Calera.

This club is for the promotion of dairying and the development of better dairy cows in Shelby County. The members are boys that own registered Jersey calves.

The following officers were elected.

Wayne Lauderdale, president; Carl Bailey, vice president; J. D. Walters, secretary - treasurer; and John Paul Pool, reporter.

This is the first meeting of this kind to be held in Shelby County; more will be heard from these boys. —W. M. Clark, 4-H Club Agent.

Soil Building Program Benefits Shorter Farm

Auburn, Ala. — Production of a bumper crop of cotton and feed material in spite of the boll weevil and bad weather conditions has convinced A. D. Ray, a farmer near Shorter, that soil building practices pay big dividends.

Mr. Ray reports that he has made 75 bales of cotton and 64 measured acres of land this year. He estimates that his corn will yield 35 bushels per acre. In addition to these crops, Mr. Ray has produced enough peanuts to fatten 70 or 80 head of hogs and plenty of legume hay for farm usage. He says, "If we hadn't had a bad crop year, I'd have made a pretty fair crop."

Mr. Ray is an ardent believer in cover crops. He states that his aim is to have every acre of his farm under cover during the winter. He has been planting winter legumes for more than five years and likes them better each year. His experience has taught him that basic slag is of untold value under winter legumes. He reports that the two best crops he ever made were following vetch that had been fertilized with 400 pounds of basic slag.

Until now Mr. Ray has concentrated his efforts on soil building work. He states that now since he has his land to the point where he can raise feedstuff, he intends to increase his livestock. His next efforts will be exerted towards development of an ideal pasture. When this is done he will have high yield of cotton, plenty of corn and permanent hay, peanuts and hogs, pasture and cows.

LEAGUE SUPPER

The Ebenezer Epworth League will sponsor a supper on Saturday night, October 8, at 7:30 p.m., at the home of Mrs. J. C. Rogers. Proceeds to be used to buy song books for the church. Hot dogs, candy, etc., will be sold. The public is cordially invited to attend.

The dairy farmer who milks low-producing cows fed largely on purchased concentrates stands little chance to get much out of his dairy business this coming winter, says F. W. Burns, dairy specialist, Auburn. The farmer who has produced a liberal supply of legume hay and silage and is planning to feed a grain mixture consisting largely of corn, oats, and cottonseed meal will find that high producing cows will furnish a good market for their home grown feeds even with the prevailing low prices for dairy products.

MARVELS THAT KEEP YOUR ELECTRIC SERVICE DEPENDABLE

No. 5 of a Series

"In a recent series of advertisements, I told you about some of the men and women who help to keep your Alabama Power electric service dependable. This series, which I hope you'll read, tells about some of the 'Miracle Machines' developed by private industry which utilize or combat the forces of Nature so your electric service will be the best you can get for the money."

—REDDY KILOWATT

Before You Could Blink Your Eyes

IT'S truly a "mechanical miracle"—this directional distance relay used on the Alabama Power Company system to isolate transmission line trouble without "hunting around."

It's one of the "brainiest" devices of the many types of relays in use. It is built so that it "knows" when and how fast it should operate in case of trouble or when it should let some other relay clear the system of trouble.

It works so fast that if you were watching it and blinked your eyes, its operation would be completed almost before your eyelids could move.

Protective relays of many types are installed at numerous points on Alabama Power Company system. They are among the many costly devices developed by engineers (in private industry) which keep your electric service dependable.

Note: Since the appearance of the first of these advertisements, we have received requests for copies of the entire series. It is therefore planned, when the series is concluded, to reproduce them in booklet form. Interested persons may have complimentary copies of the booklet by writing Dept. 319, Alabama Power Company, Birmingham.

Home Demonstration Club Meeting

Mrs. Sam Knowles entertained the Home Demonstration Club last Wednesday afternoon with Miss Mattie Knowles and Mrs. Aubin Knowles as joint hostesses. The meeting was held in the outdoor living room, a very beautiful and fitting place, as the program dealt with September and our love for our great outdoors in Shelby County.

Mrs. Max Allen presided over the business meeting in the absence of the president. A committee on finance was appointed, composed of Mrs. Lockridge, Mrs. S. Knowles, and Mrs. Lawson Ingram.

Three new members were added to the club. Miss Watson showed the members a box of novelties bought in a novelty shop in Chattanooga, Tennessee. They were practical for club work and a means of making money or for gifts.

During the social hour delicious refreshments were served to the members. The club then adjourned to meet with Mrs. Jesse Frost on the fourth Wednesday in October.

Miss Helen Ingram is visiting her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McLaughlin, in New Merkle.

Mrs. Noah Taff and baby and Mrs. Bailey of Montevallo spent Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Lawson Ingram.

Miss Bonnie Kendrick of Montevallo spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vest Kendrick.

Miss Mae Ingram left last week to enter the school of nursing at St. Vincent's Hospital.

Mr. James Lee spent last week-end with his sister, Mrs. Oscar Sterrett, in Marquett.

Mrs. P. M. Russel joined her husband in Birmingham last Friday and they went to Epps for the week-end.

Mrs. Lawson Ingram and Mrs. Mauldin visited in Salem Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob McLaughlin and son, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd McLaughlin and daughter, of New Merkle, visited Mr. Robert Ingram and family Sunday.

Mrs. Eliza Alston of Wetumpka left for home Saturday after spending two weeks with her sister, Mrs. Roland Lee.

Mr. Ernest Scroggins of Bessemer visited his sister, Mrs. Herbie Ingram, a short while Sunday morning.

Mr. William Goode and friends of Birmingham spent Sunday here.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawson Ingram visited Mrs. Nadine Brashier and baby in Saginaw Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Florence Cary spent a short while with Mrs. Lee and Mrs. Alston Friday afternoon.

Mr. W. T. Ingram of Ashby was a visitor here Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Manan DeShazo and sons of Leeds visited Mr. and Mrs. Roland Lee and Mrs. Florence Cary Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Kyle Tyler and sons, Tommy and Louis, and Miss Clara Lee, of Birmingham, spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Lee.

Miss Sue Ingram of Goodwater visited Mrs. Laura Ingram Saturday.

Bing Crosby and MacMurray Play New Role of Film Brothers

Hollywood's newest pair of screen brothers are Bing Crosby and Fred MacMurray, who head the cast of the madcap Paramount comedy, "Sing You Sinners," Sunday and Monday at the Strand Theatre.

Playing together for the first time, Fred is cast as the serious-minded and hard-working member of the tempestuous "Beebe" family, while Bing is his lackadaisical and devil-may-care brother, whose inability to land a job and contribute to the household expenses nearly drives Fred mad. Elizabeth Patterson, as the strong-willed mother who ends up as madcap as her sons, and Donald O'Connor, as the kid brother, complete the Beebe family.

The story, written by Claude Binyon, an ex-newspaperman, and author of "I Met Him in Paris" and "True Confession," traces the adventures of the unpredictable Beebes from their small town beginnings to their thumping final success in the night clubs and racing paddocks of fabulous Los Angeles. Their rise starts when Bing, believing the home town too small for his talents, leaves for the big city, promising to send for his mother and kid brother as soon as he gets well established.

Bing's dizzy career in Los Angeles parallels the star's own colorful life story. After making an immediate killing at the races, he buys a swapshop with his winnings. But, by the time Miss Patterson and young O'Connor arrive they find he has traded his business for a racehorse, on which he places everything he and they have in the world. Though the unexpected performance of the horse and the intercession of MacMurray, who organizes his brothers and himself into a night club singing trio, the Beebes bring their Los Angeles adventures to a successful although startling conclusion.

"Sing You Sinners" is paced by four new song hits from the pens of some of the top composers of Hollywood. Heading the list is "Small Fry," written by Hoagy Carmichael, the composer of the never-to-be-forgotten "Star Dust," in collaboration with Frank Loesser. In the picture this song forms an unusual novelty act, in which Bing portrays a Southern grandpappy, MacMurray a grandmammy and O'Connor the "small fry" himself. The other numbers are "I've Got a Pocket Full of Dreams," "Laugh and Call It Love," and "Don't Let That Moon Get Away," by John Burke and James V. Monaco.

BOY SCOUTS

Reorganization

The week before last we mentioned the reorganization of our Scout Troop, but failed to give the names of the new patrols. After some debating the following names were chosen: The Flying Eagle Patrol, with Billy Rotenberry as leader; the Cat Patrol, with Bob Barnes as leader. Wiley Fancher asked, as a special favor, to be allowed to keep as the name of his patrol the Bob Whites. Fred Pearson and his boys could not decide on a name for their patrol by the time we called roll, so we called them the unknowns.

They liked this name, so on the suggestion of Donald Vaughan, they worked out a symbol for the patrol. There were 21 present. The total number of boys in our troop is 31.

Bicycle Trip

On Sunday, October 3, a small group of our boys took a little trip on bicycles. We started with our objective as Oak Mountain Park, but when we reached Pelham we thought it best to start back so we could get in before dark. We came back by way of Calera so that we might have pavement all the way. We made the trip, about 45 miles, in about 4 hours.

We hope to make more trips in the future.

Caves

The Scouts are now planning to make a trip to the Saltpeter Caves on Six Mile Creek. We are going Saturday morning and intend to stay until about the middle of the evening.

Miss Louise Crowe, of Porter, spent the week-end with her aunt, Mrs. A. L. Crowe.

GIRL SCOUTS

First Hike of the Season

The Girl Scout season was opened this fall with a hike to the College Camp on Saturday, September 24. After arriving we made a big camp fire on the top of a hill, where we cooked our lunch. Some of the good things we had to eat were "Angels on horseback," "Yum Yums," and "Some mores." After cleaning up we waded in a little brook. By this time we had to leave but we hope to go on another hike soon. Those who went were: Una Faye Davis, June Mitchem, Carolyn Ray, Mary Jean Kennerly, Sarah Henry Reynolds, Frances Nybeck, Pat Weems, Jackie Woolley, Alice Ray Clemens, Edine Sellers, Edna Wells. The leaders were Misses Elouise Peck and Mary Creel.—Carolyn Ray.

Supper Hike

The Girl Scouts of Troop 2 went on their second hike Friday, September 30, to Little Springs. Some of the girls did cooking in the dutch oven. The others spread their lunch and had a good time also. We talked over plans for the winter, and explored the woods around Little Springs. After all these good times we settled down and sang songs to end our day right. The ones who enjoyed this supper hike were Tootsie Clayton, Catherine Bridges, Mirece Kelly, Betty Cain, Billie Louise Mitchell, Annie Mae Davis, Edna Wells, Alice Ray Clemens, Edine Sellers, Peggy Davis, Una Faye Davis, Mary Jean Kennerly, Bertha McGibbony, and Julia Rogan. Mrs. Vaughan and Miss Peck were the leaders.—Peggy Davis.

Troop Meeting

Troop 2 of the Girl Scouts of Montevallo met Tuesday afternoon, October 4, on the side steps of Palmer Hall. After taking a short time on the new system of becoming a First Class Scout, we decided to select patrol leaders and a scribe. Next week we hope to tell you the results of the election.

Mr. Charles Dobbins, executive secretary of Alabama College, and Scoutmaster of the Montevallo Boy Scouts, talked to us about newswriting. Among other things he urged us to have a regular column with news every week. This we hope to do. He answered questions from inquisitive members of the group which were very helpful. The girls greatly appreciated his talking with them.

The girls fourteen and over plan to organize, with the help of leaders, a senior Scout troop. They will have to have eight girls interested in it before they can start. We are greatly in need of more leaders—captains and lieutenants in Scout language. And we are quite sure that any people in the community who are interested in Girl Scout work will help us. We want volunteers.

The following girls attended the meeting: June Mitchem, and Carolyn Ray, who are newcomers to the troop; Mary Pearson, Evelyn Ward, Sara Cook, Jackie Woolley and Bertha Wells, who are to become senior Scouts; Mary Jean Kennerly, Frances Nybeck, Peggy Davis, Pat Weems, Sarah Henry Reynolds, Alice Ray Clemens, and Dama Wills.—Dama Wills.

SQUIRREL SEASON

The state-wide open season on squirrels in Alabama begins October 15 and closes January 15. Many inquiries have been received by the State Conservation Department about the squirrel season this year. Several years ago there was a split season in effect, with north and south Alabama having different shooting dates. The law now in effect provides for a uniform state-wide season of October 15-January 15. The open season on bears, foxes, o'possums and raccoons, hunted as game, began October 1. Quail, turkey and deer seasons open November 20.

Mrs. Gerald Stabler of Aliceville and Mrs. R. F. Ray spent several days last week in Leeds, where Mrs. Ray underwent an operation. Mrs. Stabler was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Clayton.

Miss Elizabeth Ralls, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. R. Ralls of Gadsden, will lead the opening dances at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute on October 7 and 8 in WPA Hall with Simmons Futch of Ocala, Florida, president of the sophomore class. Miss Ralls is a junior at the University of Alabama, and is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority.

U. D. C. WILL MEET

The General Josiah Gorgas Chapter of the U. D. C. will meet in the parlor of the Methodist Church, Thursday, October 13, at 3 p.m. A splendid program has been prepared and all members are urged to be present. Our guest speaker, Rev. O. R. Burns, will speak on the "Pulpit Orators of the South."

Sunday In The Churches

BAPTIST CHURCH

"The New Covenant" will be the pastor's theme at the Sunday morning service. The Lord's Supper will be observed. At the evening service the pastor will preach on "Impossible Neutrality."

The circles of the Missionary Society will meet at the church at 3 p.m. Monday.

Community Chest Drive 16th to 30th

Solicitors For Funds Will Take The Field Next Sunday

Beginning Sunday, October 16, solicitors will take the field in Montevallo community bringing to each and every citizen an opportunity to make a subscription to the Community Chest for 1938-1939.

Committees for making this solicitation have been set up under direction of Dr. A. W. Vaughan. The community will be asked to subscribe $1700 with which to carry on the proposed program for the next year.

For the benefit and information of those who subscribed to the Chest last year, there is published this week the complete report recently made to the Chest Assembly by the Board of Directors. You are urged to read this report so you may get a fair idea of what the Chest has done and proposes to do.

Allotment of funds from the Chest for next year have already been made by the Board, as follows:

Relief 50 per cent; Boy Scouts 12½ per cent; Girl Scouts 12½ per cent; the P. T. A. 10 per cent; High School Athletics and Band 10 per cent; Negro recreation 5 per cent.

This allotment, as compared with last year, increases the relief fund by 5 per cent and eliminates the 5 per cent last year held for expense of administration.

The Chest Assembly, composed of representatives of 21 organized groups of the town, feels that the report of operations last year will stimulate our people in renewing and perhaps increasing their pledges for the next year.

Apply To Dennis For Farm Loans

"Farmers in Shelby County seeking Rehabilitation Loans for the purchase or refinancing of necessary livestock, farm equipment, feed and seed through the Farm Security Administration may apply at the county rehabilitation supervisor's office, located in the old courthouse building at Columbiana, beginning October 15," announces James N. Dennis, county rehabilitation supervisor.

The office will be open every day during the week from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m., except Saturdays. It will be open then only until 12 o'clock.

Farmers who have been unable to secure adequate credit to place their farms on satisfactory operating basis are eligible for the rehabilitation loan to provide a new start in farming. The farm occupied, or to be rented, must be large enough to support the family and appear capable of providing a margin of profit necessary for repayment of loans based on sound and practical farm and home plans.

TOWERY MOTOR CO. ACQUIRES PLYMOUTH-DODGE AGENCY

The Towery Motor Company this week announces that they have taken the agency for Plymouth and Dodge automobiles, and are now showing the new 1939 models of Plymouth.

In the future Towery will conduct a complete sales and service for the Plymouth and Dodge. You are invited to see the new cars and enjoy a demonstration.

COTTON GINNING REPORT

Census report shows that 2,109 bales of cotton were ginned in Shelby County, Alabama, from the crop of 1938 prior to October 1, as compared with 4,141 bales for the crop of 1937. — Gordon Mooney, Special Agent.

Circle No. 1 of the Women's Missionary Society will meet Monday October 17, at 3 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Will Carpenter, with Mrs. Doyle as co-hostess. Circle No. 2 will meet with Mrs. J. A. Moore on the same day.

Three Negroes Confess

By the sale of one of the stolen knives a Negro boy gave officers a clue that enabled them to ferret the robbery of White's Hardware Store which occurred last week.

When the investigation was completed the result was a confession from three Negro boys that they did the job. Their names are Cliff Fain, Jesse Barnes and James Cunningham.

Also, the officers obtained confession from them that they are the ones who recently entered the Montevallo Cash Store and stole some groceries.

Boy Scouts Make Trip Exploring Caves

Our visit to the Saltpeter Caves was an even greater success than we expected. Each and every one of us had a great time.

James Woolley, our guide, and Donald Vaughan blazed the trail from the spring, where we gathered, to the first cave. We followed by groups, two patrols each. After going in this cave we followed a rock cliff that ranged from fifty to one hundred feet in height, to the next cave. Here we saw two points of interest, where the Hatcher Creek comes from under the mountain and goes back into Six Mile Creek, and the bats inside the cave.

We then went back to camp for dinner, after which we felt better suited to explore the "Big Cave." We looked through two more before we left.

Billy Rotenberry and P. D. Pendleton caught nine bats to bring back to "educate." Yours truly caught only seven (I turned them loose under my home.) There were several other boys who caught one or two.

I mentioned our trip being a success because, beside having a good time, not one of us was hurt, not even a stumped toe.

Maybe a Camp

We hope to have an overnight camp sometime before it gets too cold. I, and some of the other boys are in favor of going back to the caves for this purpose.

Studiosis Begins Year With Activity

Studiosis met Tuesday evening in West Main Parlor for the first regular program of the 1938-39 season.

The New president, Miss Dawn Kennedy, presided; and the program chairman, Mrs. Isobel Bruce, presented Mrs. Irvin Sanders, who gave a very interesting talk on "Life in Bulgaria."

Mrs. Sanders, whose husband is a newly elected member of the sociology faculty of the College, has spent six years as a member of the faculty of the American College at Sofia, Bulgaria. Because of her special interest in history and sociology, she has made many interesting and worthwhile observations of customs and conditions in Bulgaria, and gave a most instructive discussion to the club.

At the business meeting a number of new members were elected. Following the program the meal serving class of Alabama College served lovely refreshments under the supervision of Miss Mary Blazek.

Sunday In The Churches

BAPTIST

"Is There a 'No Man's Land' in Religion?" Dr. Pearson will discuss this subject at the Sunday morning service. The subject for the Sunday evening sermon will be "Living in an Abandoned House." Sunday School begins at 9:45 a.m. The Baptist Training Union meets at 6:45 p.m. We invite all to worship with us on the Lord's Day.

Miss Laurie Elliott

Miss Laurie Elliott, of Montevallo, who led the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity's annual formal dance at the University of Alabama last Friday evening, with E. O. Creel, Jr., of Guntersville, president of the University Chapter. The ball, which was the first formal affair of the year, was staged in the new armory in Tuscaloosa.

Governor's Proclamation For Business Women's Week

The regular monthly meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club will be held at the Hotel St. George Monday night, October 17, at 7:30. This meeting will be in keeping with the observance of National Business Women's Week.

This event is being celebrated throughout the state and the nation. Attesting to the importance of the observance the following proclamation has been issued by the Governor of the State of Alabama:

"Whereas, the women of America and the women of Alabama particularly, have contributed much to the moral, spiritual, and commercial welfare of the people as a whole, and

"Whereas, the leaders in the nation's business and spiritual life are constantly looking to the women of America for a continued advancement of the high ideals on which America is built and the women of America have been most generous in giving of their time, effort, energy, and material resources to the constant advancement of these high ideals, and

"Whereas, for better cooperation and concerted action the business and professional women have organized and successfully operated for several years the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, the aims of which organization are: 'To elevate the standards for women in business and the professions; to promote the interests of business and professional women; to stimulate local and state organizations; to bring about a spirit of cooperation among business and professional women of the United States; to extend opportunities to business and professional women through education along lines of industrial, scientific and vocational activities; and

"Whereas, the members of this organization and other business and professional women have carried on the splendid work with unshaken faith and with unswerving direction, with a loyalty and perseverance that is a tribute to these many splendid women.

"No therefore, in recognition of the untiring work and the many splendid accomplishments that have been so justly earned by the business and professional women, and in recognition of the tremendous power for good that these women have exerted in the past and will continue to exert with increasing force in the future, I Bibb Graves, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby proclaim October ninth to fifteenth, 1938, inclusive, as the Eleventh Annual National Business Women's Week in Alabama, and ask that all citizens, civic bodies, and other organizations cooperate by giving their aid and support to this cause.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery, this 6th day of October, 1938."—(Signed)

BIBB GRAVES,
Governor

PWA Grant Made To Public Schools

County Will Receive $57,150 For New Buildings and Improvements

Everybody was glad to hear the announcement from Washington Tuesday that the Public Works Administration had approved a grant of $57,150 to the public schools of Shelby County for a building program. This action will make possible immediate procedure in the erection of new and improved buildings in several localities, including an auditorium for Montevallo High School and a new building for the Negro school in Montevallo.

Tuesday afternoon The Times was informed of the grant of the PWA by a telegram from Congressman Pete Jarman, in which he said:

"Am delighted at allotment for our Shelby County school project of $57,150 grant. We have worked on this a long time and prospects have frequently looked gloomy indeed. I am happy over successful termination of our efforts."

County Superintendent J. L. Appleton stated Wednesday morning that this action by PWA will immediately release our school building projects and enable the school board to proceed with letting contracts. As pointed out by Mr. Jarman, this matter has been "in soak" for a long time. But everybody is happy that it has been settled and approved in favor of carrying out our program of much-needed school building and improvement.

It is expected that the matter of location of the Negro school in Montevallo will be settled soon. Two lots have been given approval by the state authorities, the Givhan property across the creek, and a location near Almont.

Addition of the new auditorium at the High School will be welcomed with much jubilation by students and faculty.

4-H CLUB BOYS RECEIVE PIG

The Shelby County 4-H Club boys received two registered Poland China Pigs for their fine dairy calf show at the State Fair during the week of September 26. These pigs were placed on the farms of Jessie L. Crim, Siluria, and Frank McEwen, Wilsonville. 4-H Club boys are urged to use these pigs without cost. Outsiders must pay a small fee of $1.00 for services. We hope all people living near these farmers will make use of their fine breeding.

The pigs were given as a compliment of the Cosby Hodges Milling Company, Birmingham.

"YELLOW SANDS" POSTPONED TO OCTOBER 20

Dr. W. H. Trumbauer, director of the Alabama College Theatre, announces postponement of the play, "Yellow Sands," from October 13 to the following Thursday, October 20.

This will be the first number of this year presented by the Alabama College Theatre.

MAYBERRY P. T. A. PARTY

On Friday afternoon, October 6, the Mayberry P. T. A. sponsored a lovely party for the children in the first grade of their school. The party was given as a reward for the grade having the most mothers attend the P. T. A. meeting the previous week.

Several members of the P. T. A. met with the children on the school campus where games were enjoyed for an hour. Misses La Nell Lovelady and Wilma Lawley conducted the games. Delicious refreshments were served soon afterwards.

The hostesses for the occasion were Mesdames McDonald, J. F. Lovelady, Horace Eddings, Joe Pickett, and Misses Lovelady and Lawley.

Community Chest

Upon the basis of what is regarded as a most successful venture of the past year the Montevallo Community Chest Assembly has determined to again ask the people of this community to provide means whereby the same program can be continued for another year.

On another page of this paper will be found the complete report recently made to the Assembly by the Board of Directors. This report is intended for study and careful consideration of those citizens who put their money into the Chest fund last year, that you may know what was accomplished.

Organization and administration details for next year's operations have been completed. The machinery is ready to function, and the needs of the community are evident—in some cases pressing.

Contribution of funds from our citizens as of last year is all that is lacking. You will be asked to renew your subscription during the campaign period, October 16 to 30.

The South—A National Economic Problem

The 13 states in the South—Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, and Arkansas in the Southeast, and Oklahoma and Texas in the Southwest—have a combined population of approximately 36,000,000 persons. These states have been richly endowed with natural resources. No other region has such diversity of climate and soil. It leads the world in the production of naval stores. Fish and game are as plentiful as in any part of the country. Louisiana is the nation's largest raw fur producer. Over 99 per cent of the sulphur produced in the United States comes from Texas and Louisiana. The Southeast contains one-fifth of the nation's coal. Nearly two-thirds of our crude oil is produced in the South and over two-thirds of our supply of natural gas comes from southern fields.

Despite the splendid climate and fertile soil, despite the wealth of coal, oil, gas, water power, and other natural resources, the people of the South as a whole live under economic conditions which are the poorest in the country. Half of its farmers are tenants making a miserable living from the few acres of land cultivated on a share-the-crop basis. As a result of its low income, the population of the South, more than any other section of the country, is afflicted by sickness, misery, and unnecessary death. Low wages, poor schooling, malnutrition, bad sanitation, and miserable housing are the price which the South is paying for the poverty of its people.

People in the South want and need houses, butter, beef, vegetables, milk, eggs, dresses, shirts, and shoes. They want and could use the many thousands of things, little and big, that men and machines make to bring health and good living to people. The nation's industries are losing profits and millions of workers are losing work because the South cannot afford to buy these goods.

This, briefly, is the story of the South as revealed in a recent report prepared by the National Emergency Council at the request of the President of the United States. The report offers no specific suggestions to remedy the difficulties outlined. It merely emphasizes that the economic problems of the South do not lend themselves to a simple solution. Only through the most effective cooperation of the Federal, state, and local governments with industry, business, schools, and civic organizations throughout the nation can an approach be made to the solution.—Labor Information Bulletin.

There are no laws in Alabama regarding working hours of male or female adult labor, but there are laws, however, prohibiting the employment of children under 14 years of age in any gainful occupation, except agriculture or domestic service. The law also provides that no child under 16 years of age shall be employed in any gainful occupation except agriculture or domestic service for more than six days a week nor more than eight hours a day.

THE OTHER Editor's Viewpoint From the Press of the State

YOUNG PEOPLE TO PAY PENSIONS

The drive for old-age pensions is continuing in the United States. Despite the passage of the Social Security Act, which provides that the federal government will match the state's dollar-for-dollar, up to $15 per month for every destitute old person in the land, various candidates, in a number of states, have advocated schemes to provide more money for the older people of the nation.

The original $200 a month, advocated by Dr. Townsend for those over 60 years of age, is being freely altered. In some states the amount is reduced and others, the age limit is lowered to include more voters. The idea of securing every month a sum of money from the national and state treasuries is very appealing to those who expect to get it. It is so simple. All that the voters have to do is to cast their ballots in favor of candidates who will vote in favor of such payments.

Intelligent persons, in the age group which will receive the payments, occasionally raise the question as to where the funds are coming from. There is the 2-cent stamp a week idea, the two per cent tax on gross incomes and various other schemes to get the cash. Briefly, all of them boil down to this, that the people of the United States, under the age at which pensions become effective, will have to dig up the money. They will have the bill to pay. It means that their standard of living will be lowered to the extent of their contribution in order that the standards of living for the favored class will be enhanced.

Not only is there a widespread advocacy of pensions for those who are above 60 years of age, but plain indications, as well, that the veterans of the World War have a general pension in mind. This general pension should not be confused with the care which the nation owes to those who suffered injury during their military or naval service. It is not based on injury, but if successful, will give to all veterans of the great struggle a monthly sum from the government. Such pensions are another American custom, deriving its political strength from the number of beneficiaries. Those who expect to get the money are generally in favor of the payment.

Much of the burden for these pension payments, both those to older persons and veterans, will be made by younger men and women who have come of age after the Great War ended. Few citizens of this country under the age of forty years will share in the beneficence. They will make the payment. At a time when their own obligations in life are greatest and their struggle to secure a competence for themselves and their family probably the hardest, they will be asked to give of their income in order that favored class will receive from the public treasury.

If everybody else in the country organized to promote their demands, it seems that the time has arrived for the organization of a group of voters to protect the people in this country who are under the age of the prospective beneficiaries.—Cullen Morgan in The Hale Country News.

Economic Highlights

From INDUSTRIAL NEWS REVIEW

World War German song and slogan was "Deutschland Uber Alles." Today, in the opinion of many foreign correspondents, the Third Reich could be more or less justifiably placarded with signs reading "Hitler Uber Europa." Six years ago Hitler was generally regarded as a relatively harmless sword wielder who had small chance of getting anywhere with the astounding program laid down in Mein Kampf—the book he wrote in prison. Today Hitler dominates the continent to perhaps a greater degree than any man since Napoleon, and a remarkable number of the objectives detailed in Mein Kampf have been achieved.

Furthermore, Hitler's bloodless attainment of Sudeten Czechoslovakia is certainly one of the greatest triumphs of what might be termed militant diplomacy, in the history of the modern world. No military authority thinks that Germany could have won had England and France held to their treaties and gone to war. But Hitler, interpreters close to the situation say, determined upon a great gamble. He knew that France and England dreaded war, and were horrified at the prospect of what a great air attack would do to their cities. He knew that a large segment of their populations agreed with the Deladier-Chamberlain policy of peace at any price, and that those who wanted to take a stronger line, such as Eden, were apparently in the minority. And so he came logically to the conclusion that if he stuck to his demands without compromise, the French and British would talk a great deal, would make threats—but also, when the deadline neared, would capitulate. The great gamble won. The Fuehrer had guessed right.

It is of the highest significance that at the final meeting between Hitler, his ally Mussolini, Deladier and Chamberlain, Germany got practically everything she demanded—including demands that, a few days earlier, England and France had said they would not grant. The French and British ministers left Munich after approving a plan that gave to Germany some of the richest parts of Czechoslovakia and left the little republic virtually indefensible from a military point of view. And the next day Hitler, with his confidence at its apex, said that he would support the demands of Hungary and Poland for other Czech areas—and there was no important protest.

What has been the response to all this? There is one school in this country which praises the French-British concessions. But it is a small school, and the great bulk of commentators and newspapers have been bitter in their denunciation of what they term a "sell-out" to the dictators that will inevitably breed more serious troubles later on. Washington correspondents say that no one high in our state department believes Hitler's statement that the Sudeten is the last demand he will make in Europe. He has said the same thing before—during the Saar basin controversy, for instance—and has always broken his word. The general expert feeling is that this is just the beginning—that he will let a certain amount of time elapse, and then turn his attention to other desired areas, such as the rich Ukraine, and possibly, Alsace-Lorraine, with its great deposits of coal and iron—two essential materials the Reich almost entirely lacks at present.

Even in Europe, there is an influential bloc of opinion that thinks the surrender was dishonorable and suicidal. Russia's Litvinoff has been cynical in denunciation, and has as much as said that the U. S. S. R. can no longer have any faith in the treaties and agreements of the European democracies. Navy Minister Duff Cooper has resigned from the British cabinet in protest against Chamberlain. There is some responsible comment to the effect that Chamberlain may yet be forced to resign in favor of Churchill or Eden.

Typical French comment came from Leon Blum, ex-premier, who said, "I feel myself divided between cowardly relief and my sense of shame." Almost everyone involved feels this. They did not want war, and they are happy it was averted—but this happiness is greatly temporized by the price that Hitler demanded and received for peace.

So for the time being the world is quiet once more. But there are ominous danger signals ahead. Hitler knows that British and French prestige are at their lowest ebb in generations, and that German prestige was never higher, even in the great days of the Hohenzollerns. When a man who controls a great country in which all opposition has been crushed feels that way, anything may happen.

Business news remains good in this country. Stock prices have been going up again, following a series of breaks caused by war scares. The analysts look for continued, gradual improvement for the balance of the year at least.

All industry, with no major exceptions, seems to be improving. Orders are up and inventories down. Basic industries are operating on accelerated production schedules.

So far as anyone knows, the President has no legislative bombshells in mind to present to the next congress, and this is a highly encouraging factor to business.

Letters To The Editor

MONTGOMERY FRIENDS DISTRACTED

Editor of The Times:
We of the Melrose Hotel, Prof. Calloway, myself and others, are very much distracted over "Foots" Parnell. A few issues ago your paper stated that he had gone on a visit to Sulligent. But The Times, though it is usually accurate, failed to chronicle his "return back."

Then right on the heels of that came the sad news that Bobby Cleary had lost his alligator. Now, as I recall when I left Montevallo, alligators were very scarce there, and Bobby, as well as the community of Montevallo can ill afford such a loss as this.

So I, along with others here, who are deeply interested, hope The Times (knowing it as I do to be a very effective and fruitful means of advertising) will do its utmost to locate both "Foots" and the alligator.

OUT OF The Waste Basket

By THE SWEEPER

We present below an article from the editorial columns of The Tuscaloosa News dealing with the much discussed matter of annexation of northwest Florida by Alabama. Periodically, this question arises in the minds of Alabamians and the people of northwest Florida, but nothing is ever done about it. The News brings out some pertinent thoughts, and presents the situation as follows:

Alabama's Sudeten Claim

The attention of the world has been focused for weeks on that little strip of Czechoslovakia territory known as Sudetenland, with Adolf Hitler having created a world crisis by his claim that its Germanic nature makes it necessary for his country to annex the area. . . . which brings us down to an even more local matter—namely, the feasibility of the annexation by Alabama of that western tier of Florida counties stretching from Marianna to Pensacola. With Czechoslovakia being carved up, why should we stand back? If Hitler can annex the Sudeten, why should we let the Florida counties of Jackson, Calhoun, Gulf, Holmes, Washington, Bay, Walton, Okaloosa, Santa Rosa, and Escambia continue in their present untenable position when they so pine to become affiliated with Alabama?

For all practical purposes, these counties have far more in common with Alabama than with Florida, and they are constantly complaining of the shoddy treatment which they receive at the hands of the rest of the state. To show how much they really belong to us, we have but to recall that some of our church and civic organizations include this Florida area in their South Alabama districts, and on occasion the Alabama state golf tournament has even been held at Pensacola.

In fact, Pensacola gets a lot more consideration out of Montgomery than it does out of Tallahassee, and who dares say that the patronage of Alabama people isn't the life and blood of such Florida resort towns as Panama City? In fact, during certain months of the year, you can find more Alabama people down along that stretch of the coast than you can at home.

Best of all, the map-makers and the map-readers would rise up and call us blessed were we to annex this territory, which so unnaturally deprives us of a shore line which we keep alive. It takes a good-sized atlas to present Florida, as it all is—all in one piece—and nothing is more vexing than, upon looking at a map of the state, to find that the page is so narrow that the western string of counties have been cut off and placed all by themselves in a little inset at the corner of the page.

Were we residents of that western Florida section, we would resent such shoddy treatment, and we would demand that something be done about it. Even as the Sudeten Germans have demanded of Hitler, we would demand of Alabama that a little annexation be done—and we would not be afraid. We would know that, if the Sudeten Germans can have confidence in Hitler, the Alabama Floridians can have equal confidence in Bibb—a man who is as learned as Herr Hitler, and even more learned in the art of getting something for nothing! If it's Hell Hitler across the Atlantic, let it be Bravo Bibb on the Gulf.—Tuscaloosa News.

We cannot say that we are in sympathy with The News in suggesting that we employ the tactics of Herr Hitler in acquiring the Florida territory under discussion, but we are of the opinion that if citizens of northwest Florida were given the opportunity to express their wishes at the polls on the question, the decision would be overwhelmingly for becoming a part of Alabama. This brings to mind the expression, however, of a lady said to live in Bay Harbor, Florida, some years ago when this subject was being discussed. She is reported to have said in the event that territory was annexed to Alabama, she would move, since she had "always heard that Alabama warn't healthy."

Community Chest Report For Last Year

To Subscribers of the Community Chest and Other Citizens of Montevallo:

Introductory to the more detailed reports to follow, which concern different phases of the Chest operation for the year now closing, the Chest Board wishes to refresh your recollection upon a few general facts about the inception of the organization, and the operation of the same in the broader sense.

The Chest Board was selected by representatives of 20 organized groups that are concerned with community improvement. We were instructed to determine what funds were needed for emergency relief and recreation, to conduct a campaign for funds, and to allocate the money secured.

After studying all requests the Board asked the citizens of Montevallo for $1,600. Further details of this report will show the figures that tell the story of what has been done by the Chest operations. (The figures given represent expenditures up to September 15, 1938.)

The Board set up a system of accurate checking and careful handling of the funds in its hands. Treasurer R. P. Holcomb received the money. The Board Chairman, Mr. F. P. Givhan, supervised expenditures. Each participating organization named a requisition officer who acted for that organization in drawing funds allocated to it. These requisitions, stating the definite use to be made of the money, were made to Chairman Givhan, who, in turn, passed them on to Treasurer Holcomb, for final payment.

The Board has held regular meetings. At these meetings we have given close attention to collection of pledges made to the Chest fund. In this matter we are indebted to Mrs. E. P. Hood for the excellent manner in which she handled this important phase of the Board's work. Disbursement of funds has been with diligent care consistent with the purposes of the Chest. We thank our chairman, Mr. Givhan, and our treasurer, Mr. Holcomb, for their splendid and always exact attention to this detail.

Permanent records have been kept of all meetings of the Board and of all business transacted.

The foregoing, with the following more detailed facts, the Board submits to the Assembly, in the hope that it will altogether give you a full and satisfactory picture of what has been accomplished in this the first year of the Montevallo Community Chest:

Welfare Fund

Forty-five percent of the total amount raised by the Community Chest was allocated for welfare purposes. This Welfare Fund has been expended under the direction of the Sociology Department of Alabama College. This has meant that every recipient of relief and service has been investigated by the students in training and approved by the supervisors. This case investigation has meant the gradual development of policies in the hope that not only emergency needs might be met but more permanent and constructive good might be accomplished. It has meant close cooperation with the county Department of Public Welfare that this private fund might not duplicate any expenditures available from public funds but rather that it might fill in the gaps or supplement those services. Every case for which aid was requested was cleared as to eligibility for public funds. Therefore the Community Fund has met suffering that otherwise would have been unalleviated, entailing untold misery and prolongation of physical and economic handicaps.

Grocery Orders

Although $102.81 was expended for grocery orders, these orders were principally given during the first few months of the year. It was soon evident that with limited funds it was not possible to provide adequate food budgets and that most cases of complete destitution were eligible for public assistance. Therefore, grocery orders represent extreme emergencies given to families who were completely without food pending investigations or awaiting assignments to WPA. A few were given as supplementary orders for diets in cases of illness or temporary unemployment. It would be safe to say that no order was given unless a visit indicated that there was absolutely no food in the home and that children could not attend school or the parent report to WPA unless food was made available. In one instance the head of the family who had been assigned to WPA was reporting to duty without breakfast. He was doubly weak from an attack of influenza. At home were a wife and five children. The family had been evicted from their last farm. The cow had been left to them but was giving no milk as there had been no feed for her for several weeks. The granting of grocery orders has never been accepted as a plan but merely as part of a program of rehabilitation.

School Lunches

A definitely permanent plan has been consummated in the expenditures for school lunches; $189.60 was donated for this purpose. This has meant that around twenty children during the nine months term have received daily lunches. Every case was carefully investigated and the majority of the children were from families "on relief." That is, families that were on such monthly budgets as $21 for nine in the family, $15 for four in the family, $11 for six in the family. It was impossible to adequately supplement the family income but the children were assured of at least one well balanced meal and the opportunity of feeling somewhat more like the more privileged children of the school community. In only one case where a special diet was a matter of "life and death" was an accurate record kept of the startling benefit of the lunches. This girl of 15 weighed only 64 pounds and she gained 15 pounds in five months. It is felt that though other cases might not have been so graphic that school lunches have made a definite inroad into the problem of malnourished children. In all of the cases interest has been maintained in their school progress and adjustment. Many children have attended school more regularly when parents were assured that they would not have to go through the long session without nourishment. Six dollars was spent on school supplies for children whose work would have been seriously limited without this help.

Clothing

Most of the $26.59 spent for clothing was for shoes or sweaters for school children who could not have attended otherwise. The smaller proportion went for cases of illness or hospitalization where the patient had none or inadequate sleeping garments.

Medical Needs

The greater proportion of the welfare fund has gone toward medical needs; $115.66 for hospital bills, $56 for tonsilectomies, $37.16 for medicine, $30.50 for X-rays and medical care. This has been recognized as the most startling lack in the social welfare program. There are no public funds available for meeting cases of illness or physical handicaps. The drama and tragedy of sudden and terrifying illness in homes of poverty cannot be adequately described. One little girl was given hospitalization too late to save her, but it was impossible to alleviate her suffering in a home where bedding consisted of rags and dirty clothing, and where the only dishes were lids from tin cans. A much brighter picture was the restoration of a mother to her three children whose operation came in time to prevent pernicious anemia. Another little girl was rushed to the hospital in such a critical condition that an appendectomy had to be performed in less than an hour after her admission. None of the nine tonsilectomies performed were of a routine nature. The children were already showing the effects of acute infection by rheumatic symptoms. It is felt that each was a preventive measure and that adult cardiac conditions may have been arrested. In practically all of these cases it was necessary to provide cod liver oil, as malnutrition was already marked. The improvement in general health, growth and alertness has been startling. In no case were the parents able to afford the operation which they knew their children so critically needed.

Garden Seed

It is felt that perhaps the expenditure of $6.90 for garden seed should have been greater. The emergency needs have been so urgent that the agency has not felt justified in meeting more indefinite rehabilitation and "long time" problems. However, the results in the few cases indicate the experiment constructive and worthwhile.

Many Lives Benefited

We have not available the figures to estimate the actual number of human beings affected and human lives benefited by the expenditure of the $628.42. It is known, however, that in each case the emergency need could not have been met and the human suffering alleviated without this private fund from the gifts of the citizens of Montevallo.

Recreation

Fifty percent of the total amount raised by the Community Chest was allocated for recreation.

The recreational needs of Montevallo's boys and girls have been apparent and outstanding for several years. In answer to this challenge, and because it seemed desirable to systematize the raising of funds for recreational purposes, the Community Chest Assembly voted to include recreational agencies in the field to be served by the Community Chest. In a sense this step did not mean a decided change in the financing of such organizations as the Boy and Girl Scouts, the High School Athletic Association, and the P. T. A., for in the past these groups have depended largely on subscription campaigns for their support. It did mean, however, that their financing would be on a more systematic basis and that one subscription campaign might replace numerous appeals throughout the year. It was believed that such a plan would be welcomed by the community, particularly the local merchants, who are probably called upon more frequently than any other group.

The recreational agencies and the percentages which they were designated to receive are as follows:

The Boy Scout Program	12½%
The Girl Scout Program	12½%
The P. T. A.	10%
High School Athletics and Band	10%
Negro recreation	5%

Both Boy and Girl Scouts Troops have worked and are still working on plans for permanent meeting places. The absence of completed buildings is not to be taken as evidence that these groups have been idle, but rather is an indication of the soundness and thoughtfulness of their planning.

Boy Scouts

The Boy Scouts have negotiated with Dr. Doster, of Birmingham, for long-term lease of a desirable site near Big Spring. The Boy Scout leaders stated that they felt the lease would be obtained after certain necessary technicalities have been settled. The Chairman of the Boy Scout Troop Committee expressed the hope that the Boy Scouts might receive an appropriation for the coming year comparable to that given by the Chest this year, which additional amount would probably make it possible for building to begin soon. The Boy Scouts have paid $50 assessment to the Black Warrior Council from funds made available by the Community Chest, but the balance of their percentage is being held to apply on building. The Boy Scouts have an average membership of 30 boys from Montevallo proper and one of their greatest needs is enthusiastic local leadership. The present membership shows a favorable increase over last year's membership of 20 boys.

Girl Scouts

The Girl Scouts have secured from Alabama College a promise of the triangular building site on the Aldrich Road, across from the College Infirmary; but they too are holding their funds in the hope that the Community Chest allocation for the coming year may give them the necessary funds for beginning construction. Leaders in the Girl Scout movement expressed their approval of raising and distributing funds through the Community Chest. The Girl Scouts have an average membership of 75 girls and the area reached by the Girl Scouts includes the consolidated school area as well as Montevallo proper.

The P. T. A.

The Parent-Teacher Association divided the percentage given to their organization so that $60 was spent for the purchase of High School equipment and $100 for Elementary equipment. The larger proportion went to the Elementary School since High School students were sharing in the amounts given to the Athletic Association, the Band, and the Scouts. The High School purchased athletic equipment of such nature that it could be used and enjoyed by as many of the students as possible. Necessary first aid equipment was also supplied. The Elementary School purchased a Jungle Gym of sturdy construction which will be a permanent piece of play ground equipment for youthful acrobats. Mrs. Murray Fancher, President of the P. T. A., stated that the method of raising money through the Community Chest was much easier than the organization's past methods and that she did not believe it has in any way lessened the interest in P. T. A. activities. Teachers in the Elementary School report that the Jungle Gym is a piece of equipment which is used and greatly enjoyed by the children.

High School Band

The High School Band has been able to purchase a $47.50 horn through Community Chest funds. Mr. Kildea, director of the band, voiced his enthusiastic appreciation for the assistance which has been made possible. Mr. Kildea stated that the purchase of instruments with Community Chest money has made it possible for those who cannot afford to buy their own instruments to play in the band, and at the same time has been an incentive toward encouraging them to have their own instruments.

Athletics

The High School Athletic Association has spent a total of $37.50 for football equipment and gasoline used on football trips. Mr. Hicks, High School athletic director, stated enthusiastically that the finest thing which has ever happened to the Athletic Association is the plan of the Community Chest. He and Mr. Tidwell, principal of the High School, feel that the local people have been called on less than is usual, and that this is a definite advantage. Mr. Tidwell stated, however, that he believed the Athletic Association had probably received less money than if they had raised their funds individually.

The Greatest Need

Mr. Tidwell further stated that he felt the greatest need to be met by the Community Chest were such needs as medical care, books, clothing and lunches for school children. He stated that the need this year seems to be as great as ever before and that at the present time, there are thirty school students who are in desperate need of books, clothing and lunches.

For the Negroes

The amount allotted for Negro recreation has not yet been used. The Montevallo teacher, Anna Peoples, and the County Supervisor of Colored Schools, Zelia Stevens, felt that it was wise to delay spending the money until the new Negro school is built. It is still their wish that this money be held for them until plans for the new school are more definite.

Farm Loan Program Is Explained By Dennis

"The rehabilitation loan program in this county calls for soil improvement and better tenure arrangements this year," states James N. Dennis, county rehabilitation supervisor. "Longer leases are necessary to make real headway in rebuilding soils, to produce abundant yields."

"The old system of leasing a farm for one year or for a cropping season has been determined one of the principal contributing causes to the plight of many farm families and the present condition of lands.

"Effort will be made to aid families who rent lands to secure leases for at least three years, and where possible for five years, so that a soil-building program can be included in the farm plan for next season and for subsequent years. Written leases will be required detailing the agreement between tenant and landlord and both will be adequately protected by definite provisions of the leases. By soil-building practices the tenant will see improved yields come from his labors and the landlord will have his land improved for future advantage," continued Mr. Dennis.

Farm plans this year will include a livestock program where proper leases are secured and a start will be made in pasture developments. The fine feed crop made this year now enables many families to increase their herds or to make a start if no livestock is owned at present.

Approximately 55 families in this county were aided last year and later.

Members of the organizations please attend the services promptly.

most of them will farm again with the assistance of the rehabilitation program. Many of these families made a real jump upward toward security and many more are well on the way with ample food and feed reserves, good workstock, tools, livestock, and their equipment almost paid for.

Applications are now being received in the local office of the Farm Security Administration for group service loans to buy needed sires, bulls, harvesting or farming equipment. These loans are made to finance purchase of needed services or equipment in any community where fees charged for use of same may repay purchase loans.

Thrill Follows on Thrill in "Too Hot to Handle" at The Strand

Five major thrills, reminiscent of five great news events, provide the background for the new Clark Gable-Myrna Loy picture, "Too Hot to Handle," coming to the Strand Thursday and Friday.

They include the aerial bombing of Shanghai, the crash of a famed aviatrix's plane on a round-the-world flight, the explosion of a mystery munitions ship, the disappearance and rescue of an American flier in the South American jungles, and a pitched battle between the New York police and a notorious two-gun gangster barricaded in a tenement flat with a "tommy-gun."

A story of newsreelmen, Clark Gable and Walter Pidgeon play rival newsreel cameramen and Myrna Loy portrays the daring aviatrix. They are supported by Walter Connolly who plays Gable's boss, and Leo Carrillo as Gable's sound man.

For the picture, a section of bombed Shanghai was recreated, a plane was crashed and burned, a 315-foot liner was burned at sea while two hundred expert swimmers were rescued from the turbulent sea, a New York street was erected for the gun battle, and a picture expedition was sent to the Dutch Guiana jungles to film a tribe of one thousand Negroes who had never before seen a white man.

On a round-the-world flight, Miss Loy crashes her plane in Shanghai. A keen rivalry begins to obtain her flying services for rival newsreel companies. She joins Gable's company on condition it finances her to find her missing brother, believed to be held prisoner by jungle natives. Meanwhile, Miss Loy and Gable scoop the world with a newsreel of a burning liner. Gable and Pidgeon finance her expedition and the brother is rescued. Back in New York, Miss Loy rushes into Gable's arms during a gun battle.

GIRL SCOUTS

Exit summer and swimming—enter autumn and schools—with the Girl Scouts everywhere preparing to assume once more their old familiar role of school girls. Soon, approximately 500,000 of America's seven to eighteen-year-old girlhood will again assemble their books, fortified by a long summer of Girl Scouting, in which outdoor camping has played a greater part than ever before. Some people think that the movement flourishes only in the summer-time; that schooling and Girl Scouting are not compatible.

On the contrary, while school has its season and camping its season, Girl Scouting belongs to every season. From September to June, it supplements the school, the two working hand in hand toward creating a richer life for the girl. In school, the approach to that life is through discipline of lectures, study and doing. In Girl Scouting, the approach is through recreation and permitting the girl a free choice in the selection of those activities which she thinks would be most fun to learn.

Taste for Homemaking

And lest anyone think that American girls, given a choice of things to do, will choose only games and athletics, records of the Girl Scout organization last year showed that the preponderance of tastes ran to homemaking activities, and that more badges were awarded in this field than in any other. Girl Scouts were busy about many things—but were busiest about cooking and the study of foods, housekeeping, sewing, and learning how to entertain. For whether the girl looks forward either to making her own home, or to a career, a knowledge of these things will be an asset in both.

Where home economics is taught in the schools, the Girl Scout program supplements what has been learned by affording an opportunity to practice it in conjunction with other skills. A part of school hours, for example, may this fall be devoted to the study of cooking. When Girl Scouting hours begin, the troop may plan to give a dinner to their parents. They will cook the dinner themselves; but all sorts of other responsibilities will arise. The invitations must be issued in good form, the marketing must be done; the room attractively prepared; flowers must be arranged; the guests properly received, and the meal well served.

Should school teach the Girl

Scout something of sewing, she may find the joy of creation in her leisure hours by joining with her troop members in choosing, designing, and making the curtains for their Girl Scout "Little House."

Some Novel Interests

Not long ago, a Girl Scout in Altoona, Pa., used her troop hours to supplement her school work in a novel way. In her science course, she had been assigned to a project in chemistry involving the analysis of water. Capitalizing on the country hikes taken with her troop, she tested the drinking water in various localities. Her companions grew interested, and before they knew it, they had made a water survey of the entire county.

In a Nashville, Tenn., high school, the students felt the need of greater social activity outside of school hours. The school's senior Girl Scout troop met to discuss the problem, and proposed a "hayride and barn dance." From this proposal arose the necessity of investigating transportation costs, and arranging for music and refreshments, bringing all within a limited price. As a result, two wagon-loads of happy high school students, boys and girls, set off for a nearby village where an old fiddler set the pace for country dancing.

Adjunct to School

These are some of the reasons why the educators of the country have found Girl Scouting a desirable adjunct to the school curriculum. They believe it helps to keep the girl mentally alert, creating a more desirable student by reason of the experience it gives in cooperative play and work, in which youth learns to forego personal desires to meet the will of the majority; to be both a good winner and a good loser.

The affinity between education and Girl Scouting is constantly being evidenced by such things as the provision made by a great majority of schools for troop meeting-places; by the inclusion of Girl Scouting in many schools as an extra-curricular activity; by the great number of teachers throughout the country who are also qualified Girl Scout leaders (except for housewives, the largest majority); by the many members of boards of education, principals and superintendents who serve on volunteer Girl Scout councils and troop-committees.

Several colleges today include in their curricula special courses in Girl Scout leadership, notably Stanford University, California. Certain school principals even consider a teacher's knowledge of Girl Scouting so important that they have included it as a credit toward obtaining a position on the faculty. Not long ago one school which required teacher-attendance at a summer session, gave, as an alternative, attendance at a Girl Scout training course.

Troop 2

Tuesday, October 10, the Girl Scouts of Troop 2 met on the steps and adjoining grounds of Palmer Hall. They had elected patrol leaders last week and today a scribe, assistant scribe and treasurer were elected. Those chosen were Dama Wills, scribe; Carolyn Ray, assistant; and Julia Rogan, treasurer.

Here is some good news for the Girl Scouts. Miss Frances Ribble, alumnae secretary of Alabama College, is going to be our captain. Although she has never worked with Scouts, we think she will catch on quickly.

Patrol leaders met with Mrs. Vaughan at her home on Wednesday afternoon of last week and selected members for each group. Here are complete lists of patrol leaders and their patrols:

Frances Nybeck, patrol leader; Mary Jean Kennerly, assistant; Annie Mae Davis, Catherine Adams, Billie Louise Mitchell, Carolyn Ray, June Mitchum, Virginia Barnes.

Sarah Henry Reynolds, patrol leader; Mayo Baker, assistant; Ethel Lois Pate, Irma Cunningham, Gloria Killingsworth, Tootsie Clayton, Julia Rogan, Betty Cain.

Peggy Davis, patrol leader; Pat Weems, assistant; Louise Holcombe, Edna Wells, Alice Ray Clennons, Edine Sellers, Dama Wills.

meetings so far this fall. They meet on Friday afternoon, as soon as school closes. Some have to leave on busses which cuts their meeting short. They hope to work out some plan by which they may have the full hour and a half.

FOOTBALL

The game was decidedly Montevallo's from the beginning to the end, as the linemen charged ferociously into the West Blocton backfield, stopping whatever attack the Blocton team had.

Not only did the linemen work laboriously but the backs were wide awake in the defensive art of sizing up plays, intercepting passes, and stopping the attack.

The outstanding backfield men were Dement, Thomas, Little, Vaughan on the offense. The outstanding defensive line play of Bearden, Martin, Tony, Lawley, Nix, Mooney and Williamson bottled up the famed Ferrari to the extent that no yardage was chalked up on line plays.

The lone Blocton touchdown came from a fluke pass late in the fourth quarter to obtain their only counter in the entire affray. The cool judgment of Cahoon and Hartley at quarterback made possible the creditable showing of a spirited offense that aided the Montevallo Bulldogs to their decisive win.

Cotton Loan Ruling Is Explained By State AAA Administrator A. W. Jones

Auburn, Ala. — A. W. Jones, State AAA administrator, says that those farmers who are classified as non-cooperators under the 1938 farm program cannot secure government cotton loans except on that portion of their crop produced in excess of their marketing quotas.

"Non-cooperators cannot get loans on cotton produced by them within their quotas. Loans to farmers who have not cooperated under the program can be made only on cotton produced this year in excess of quotas," he said. Rate of loans to this group of cotton growers will be only 60 per cent of the rates applicable to farmers who are classified as cooperators, stated Mr. Jones.

"An non-cooperator is a producer whom the county committee has adjudged to have knowingly overplanted in excess of the cotton acreage allotment established for his farm," Jones explained. If the committee determines that a producer has not "knowingly overplanted," he will be considered a cooperator and will get the full government cotton loan rate.

The amount of cotton eligible for a loan in the case of non-cooperators cannot be determined by the county committee until "the total production in 1938 is reported to the county office and the farm marketing quota is adjusted on that basis." This information was contained in a telegram received by Jones from I. W. Duggan, director, AAA, Southern Division.

"If a non-cooperator produces 4,500 pounds of cotton and his marketing quota is 3,000, he is eligible for a loan on 1,500 pounds. However, if the marketing quota is 3,000 pounds and he produces less than that amount, he is not eligible for a loan," Jones explained.

PEACH TREE BORER CONTROL OUTLINED

Auburn, Ala.—October is a month of work for Alabama peach growers if the state is to continue to increase peach production that reached a new high this past season, advises W. A. Ruffin, entomology and horticulture specialist of the Alabama Extension Service. This month is the proper time to combat the peach tree borer which does more injury to the peach crop than probably anything else.

For trees over four years of age Mr. Ruffin advises application of approximately three-fourths ounce of paradichlorobenzene around the tree trunks this month. North Alabama trees should receive the treatment from October 1 to 10; Central Alabama trees should be treated from October 5 to 15; and trees in the southern part of the state should be treated from October 10 to 20.

To apply this material, remove all stones and trash from around the base of the trees and level the soil, but do not dig it up. Apply the proper amount in a continuous band about 1 or one-half inches from the trunk. Several shovelfuls of trash-free soil should be placed over this to form a mound and then packed. This mound should be torn down in from 4 to 6 weeks, depending on the age of the trees.

Trees under four years of age can be treated safely by the paradichlorobenzene-cottonseed - emulsion method. Two pounds of paradichlorobenzene are dissolved in 1 gallon of cottonseed oil, 1 pound of fish-oil soap is added, and the mixture is then stirred well. After this it is emulsified by pumping twice from one container to another. One-half pint of the stock emulsion is then mixed well with 7½ pints of water and ½ pint is used for one and two-year-old trees, or 1 pint is used for three-year-old trees. The emulsion should be applied directly to the base of the trunk and the soil should be mounded around the

CHEAP FEED; GOOD ANIMALS IS NEED

Auburn, Ala. — Buying cattle to feed or feed for cattle is speculation, says Dr. R. S. Sugg, beef cattle specialist of the Alabama Extension Service, unless both are produced economically. Good cattle and sufficient cheap feed are prime requisites for profitable beef production.

"Producers must be prepared to meet competition by low-cost production, which can only be done by increasing the yields of feed crops per acre and the carrying capacity of pastures," he states. "In addition, the type and quality of cattle that the market demands must also be produced."

Beef cattle producers and farmers overlook one of the most practical and economical ways to improve the type and quality of the cattle—use of good bulls. Cooperative buying, community purchase, and other methods of securing a bull will pay dividends all down the line, according to Dr. Sugg. Calves from a good bull are frequently worth 25 to 40 per cent more than those sired by a scrub bull. If native cows are used as a foundation, the use of a good bull will build up the herd within a few years.

Too much emphasis cannot be placed on the following essentials of beef cattle production, a progressive development of the state's agriculture:

1. Provide two to five acres of pasture for each mature animal.
2. Provide two or three tons of sorghum silage, or one ton of hay, and 300 pounds of cottonseed meal, or 700 pounds of velvet beans for wintering each animal.
3. Use good type purebred Hereford, Angus, or Shorthorn bull.
4. Grade up herd by keeping best heifers.
5. Cull out non-breeders and poor producers to secure at least 85 to 90 per cent calf crop.
6. Market calves at weaning age.
7. Keep posted on market requirements and trends.
8. Arrange for ample, long-time financing.

tree as in the band method. Mounds should be torn down in 4 weeks.

For trees under 4 years recent experiments indicate that an emulsion of Ethylene Dichloride is safer and probably a little more effective than the paradichlorobenzene emulsion. Due to the fact that it is rather difficult to make emulsions of any kind, it is doubtful that many farmers will be interested in using this new control method. However, growers interested in securing details of these different methods should write to the Alabama Experiment Station, Auburn.

ONE QUESTION Leads to ANOTHER

YOUR affairs are rarely so simple, whether they are business or social in nature, that a brief communication is adequate to settle them fully when the other party is in another city.

One question leads to another—and that is why a three-minute long distance telephone call is not only effective, but truly economical.

It is a two-way exchange of ideas. It saves time. It allows the warm tones of your voice to express your personality. It enables you to use a surprisingly large number of words. Best of all, it is low in cost.

Look in the front pages of your telephone directory, or ask the "Long Distance" operator, for the rates on the call you would like to make.

Long distance telephone rates on most calls are even lower after 7 P. M. every night, and all day Sundays. But any time, to anywhere, telephone to get results.

"Boys' Town" Will Feature Mickey Rooney, Spencer Tracy Sunday-Monday

"Boys' Town," the M-G-M picture starring Spencer Tracy and Mickey Rooney, is coming to the Strand next Sunday and Monday, according to a dispatch received from Mr. Eddie Watson, manager, who is in Atlanta. This picture is the greatest screen hit of the month.

The story of a lone man who had an ideal and the courage of his convictions affords Spencer Tracy another opportunity for one of his masterful characterizations. M-G-M and Director Norman Taurog have stepped nicely but boldly along a course that avoided the pitfalls of cheap sentimentality and heroics on the one hand and stuffy preachment on the other to produce a picture that may truly be labeled with superlatives.

Although its latter sequences plunge recklessly into lurid melodrama of the Rover lad's type, "Boys' Town" is so touched with humanity and sincerity in its skillful blending of fact and fiction and vitalized with such life-like characterizations that it warrants the nod over other worthy contributions of the month. A major factor in the effectiveness of "Boys' Town" is the even, firm persuasive portrayal of Father Flanagan by Spencer Tracy. Young Rooney evidences the need of a restraining hand to curb his growing penchant for over-emphasis, but the kid, nevertheless, is enormously appealing.

In a world rumbling with the jungle hatred of war, it is a thrilling and soul-satisfying adventure to see "Boys' Town." And to realize that out in Nebraska there is one man who firmly believes that humanity is worth saving.

It matters not what your creed or religion or race may be, you will salute Father Flanagan, a man who had a vision and an ideal and the courage and strength to make both come true. His simple premise that "there is no such thing as a bad boy" has the sincere, the homespun ring of the philosophies of the truly great.

It is more than acting that makes "Boys' Town" noteworthy. It is more than directing and it is more than action. It is the fact that "Boys' Town" presents a problem and a solution of it.

The story of Father Flanagan's town for boys, where boys picked up out of the streets govern themselves and make their own law, has been known to many; but it remained for the screen to magnify it so that all could see it and reason accordingly.

The role of Father Flanagan offers Spencer Tracy a characterization in perfect contrast to his award winning work in "Captains Courageous" and the warm understanding of his portrayal is certain to strengthen his popular appeal.

"Yellow Sands" At College Theatre Tonight

Comedy of Family Life Is First Production of The Year

What birthday present would please an eccentric aunt in her eightieth year? That's what the cast of "Yellow Sands" will reveal when the College Theatre at Alabama College presents the first production of the year Thursday evening in Palmer Hall.

Attentive relatives will try to tickle the old lady's fancy with a water bottle, a parrot, a cactus plant, a muffler, a song and a bottle of raspberry wine—all in the effort to be favorably remembered at her decease. A family quarrel enables Aunt Jennifer to decide which relative is most loving and least grasping.

The cast includes Ellen Preuit, Town Creek, playing the role of Aunt Jennifer; Frances Douglas, Montgomery, as the fun-loving Richard Varwell; Carolyn Baker, Birmingham, as the dependable Arthur Varwell; Kate Corcoran, Uniontown, as Emma Majors, Arthur's fiancée; Anita Motes, Sylacauga, as radical Joe Varwell; Grace Robins, Fairfield, the lawyer Baslow; Lois Sheffield, Selma, Thomas Major, Aunt Jennifer's swain; Abby Longshore, Roanoke, the easy-going maid, Lydia Blake; Clara Ware, Roanoke, as the religious fanatic; Modessa Kirksey, Aliceville, and Elenora Stier, Birmingham, as the giggling twins.

The play will be directed by Dr. Walter H. Trumbauer, head of the College Theatre, assisted by Miss Helen Hewell, instructor in dramatics. Authors of "Yellow Sands" are Eden and Adelaide Philipotts.

Funeral Services Held For Tom Nix

Mr. Tom Nix, age 41, died last Thursday at his home near Montevallo. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Fred B. Pearson Thursday, at Salem Church. Burial was in the adjoining cemetery, with Jeter in charge. Mr. Nix was a member of Montevallo Baptist Church.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Quintilla Nix; two sons, David and Eddie Lee; two sisters, Mrs. Mattie Eddings, and Mrs. Lola Cunningham; four brothers, Bliss, of Montevallo, Willie, Virgil, and Eddie, of Texas.

Mr. Nix was a farmer who lived all his life in the vicinity of Montevallo.

Nine Shelby County Students at Auburn

Among the 870 freshman students who are this fall attending the Alabama Polytechnic Institute there are nine from Shelby County.

Total enrollment for the entire 1938-39 session will reach 3,200, an increase of more than 10 per cent over last year. At the end of the third week of the present session, 2,950 students had registered. More than 250 students will enroll for the second semester in January.

Following are the names of freshmen at Auburn from Shelby County: Herbert Milton Crim, Calera; Margaret Louise Nash, Helena; Russell Ambrose, Robert C. Anderson, James Fancher, Earl McGaughey, John Alexander Reid, Thomas Andrew Woolley, Montevallo; and Mays E. Montgomery, Vincent.

AUXILIARY MEETING

The American Legion Auxiliary meets at 3 o'clock this afternoon (Thursday) at the home of Mrs. J. L. Appleton. The program will be a report from the national convention recently held in Los Angeles.

The Call of Community Service The Montevallo Community Chest

Purpose

To provide for emergency relief and character-building recreation in the town of Montevallo and among the children of the Montevallo school district through one organization representing all groups and social agencies in the community.

EMERGENCY RELIEF

The Need

One-half of the Chest budget for 1938-39—an increase over the allotment of last year—will be reserved for human welfare needs that cannot be met with government funds. The annual report of the Chest Board for last year reveals how varied and how moving are these needs. Most of the welfare expenditure went to provide for medical service and school lunches for children. But there were many other kinds of emergency service.

Every citizen of Montevallo should read the Chest Board's report, realizing that a public statement obviously can reveal only part of the full story of want, of the "tragedy of sudden and terrifying illness in homes of poverty," of "the pathos of hungry school children."

The Plan

Two purposes have controlled the Chest Board in setting up the program for emergency relief: namely, to supplement the work of the County Department of Public Welfare "where the need is greatest" and to spend the funds "where the most permanent and constructive good can be accomplished." To secure this result there must be cooperation with teachers, ministers, physicians, and county welfare workers, and there must be protection against both sentimentality and fraud such as only the trained case-worker can give. Montevallo is unusually fortunate in having the services of experienced sociologists at Alabama College to direct this work.

COMMUNITY RECREATION

The Need

The Community Chest Board last year asked the citizens of Montevallo for $1,600. One hundred and ninety-one individuals answered that call with a total of $1,596 paid in by October 1. Some of the contributors were concerned primarily for supplying relief; others were chiefly interested in providing the best possible influence for boys and girls—for developing a more effective program of character-building recreation.

Recreation

The Board and the leaders of all cooperating agencies studied this second problem all year and guarded carefully the expenditure of funds so as to build permanently. Half of the recreation allotment was set aside for the Scout program for boys and girls to help provide for permanent meeting places. The reports of plans and progress by these organizations have been so encouraging that a similar allotment has been made for next year.

School Activities

The other half of this fund has again been directed to recreation within the schools. The high school athletic program last year was continued without a school drive for contributions from the citizens. The band was encouraged and strengthened. The Parent-Teacher Association was enabled to improve greatly the playground equipment for younger children. And the Negroes were assured assistance in getting a better playground for their school children.

THE MONTEVALLO PLAN

1. The Community Chest creates no new obligations.
2. It does not compete with any other welfare organization, nor take the place of state and national welfare and relief agencies.
3. It is created to serve the needs of those agencies that have proved their worth to the community.
4. It relieves the workers in these organizations from having to go out and appeal for funds.
5. It seeks to distribute the support of community welfare work and recreation so that all citizens will pay according to their ability.
6. It is economical and fair because the funds subscribed are allocated according to need after thorough study of all requests.
7. It provides every individual with a trained force ready promptly to investigate and relieve any reported need for emergency relief.
8. It provides for planning over a period of years and gradual development of facilities for community efficiency.
9. It offers every citizen a chance to share in building a happier and better town.
10. The Montevallo chest is safeguarded with complete financial records and a thorough audit and public report at the end of each year.
11. Payments on your pledge can be made in November, January, April, and July according to your convenience. Indicate this on the pledge card.

COMMUNITY CHEST BUDGET

For emergency relief	50%
For Boy and Girl Scout programs	25%
For P.-T. A. use	10%
For High School athletics and music	10%
For Negro recreation	5%
Total	100%

Make all payments at the office of the Warrior Water Company to R. P. Holcomb, Treasurer.

Rummage Sale To Be Held Next Saturday

Proceeds To Be Use By Welfare Committee of Montevallo Study Club

Mrs. F. P. Givhan, chairman of the Welfare Committee of the Montevallo Study Club, announces that the rummage sale, which is sponsored annually by the club and her committee, will be held next Saturday, October 22, in front of the office of the Warrior Water Company. The sale will begin about nine o'clock in the morning and continue all day.

Mrs. Givhan requests that everybody who may have something they can give to be sold please call her or better still, just bring or send the article to the water office.

Any kind of useful articles will be acceptable, such as children's clothing, shoes, household goods and appliances.

The money derived from this sale will be used by the Welfare Committee of the Study Club in helping underprivileged children. In making this announcement of the sale for next Saturday, Mrs. Givhan made the following interesting comment upon the use of the money raised in this way last year:

"Last year," she said, "we held the rummage sale, and the splendid cooperation we received from the people of Montevallo made it possible for us to realize quite a neat sum of money. The money so raised was used to secure a tonsil operation for a child who was already suffering partial deafness. This medical aid was effective in starting the child toward recovery and back to normal physical condition."

Mrs. Givhan concluded by saying: "We hope to be able with our rummage sale this year to perform another such meritorious service, and we will appreciate the help of everyone who can spare something which we may sell and use in this way."

Home Economics Class Studies Diseases

The first section of the Home Economics II Class of Montevallo High School has been making a study of contagious diseases and methods of immunization. Three important diseases and their immunizations were studied. They were smallpox, diphtheria, and typhoid fever. Surveys were made in the Elementary and High Schools.

All children under ten years of age should be immunized against diphtheria. Everyone should be immunized against smallpox and typhoid fever. The percentage of children immunized against these diseases was amazingly low. The following shows the results of the survey. The figures are percentages:

Elementary School

Grade 1. Smallpox 68, typhoid 48, Diphtheria 67.
Grade 2. Smallpox 39, typhoid 0, diphtheria 68.
Grade 3. Smallpox 48, typhoid 20, diphtheria 82.
Grade 4. Smallpox 51, typhoid 37, diphtheria 70.
Grade 5. Smallpox 57, typhoid 26, diphtheria 51.
Grade 6. Smallpox 70, typhoid 45, diphtheria 83.
Total. Smallpox 53, typhoid 32, diphtheria 69.

High School

Junior I. Smallpox 45, typhoid 21, diphtheria 54.
Junior II. Smallpox 40, typhoid 28, diphtheria 60.
Junior III. Smallpox 41, typhoid 30, diphtheria 35.
Senior I. Smallpox 55, typhoid 29, diphtheria 55.
Senior II. Smallpox 39, typhoid 21, diphtheria 27.
Senior III. Smallpox 49, typhoid 26, diphtheria 54.
Total. Smallpox 46, typhoid 26, diphtheria 51.

"Slow" Below; "Stop" Above

Isn't this heading a bit confusing, or perhaps totally unintelligible?

We know it is. It is just as confusing as the traffic signs are on Main Street at the Baptist Church corner.

In fact, it was those conflicting signs that suggested the curious expression in the heading of this piece.

The "stump" on the pavement says "slow." The light hanging directly above says "stop" or "go."

The Times agrees with the citizen who suggested this matter to our attention—that the "stump" should be moved out of the way.

The traffic light above is sufficient. The "stump" has lived its usefulness. About all it does now is cause annoying bumps when it is run over by a truck or car. Maybe now and then it bursts a tire for somebody.

We vote to keep the "stop" and "go" light above—and to do away with the "stump" below.

A National Need—Home Building

In a recent issue, the magazine Life published a handsome housing portfolio that should come as "news" to millions of American families.

The purpose of the portfolio is to point out that these families can build and buy far better homes than they now rent without increasing their housing budgets, with the aid of modern construction methods and long-time, low-interest mortgage loans.

Life does not simply illustrate a variety of homes, with dry-as-dust statistics concerning costs. Instead it takes four actual families, one each in the $2,000, $3,000, $5,000 and $10,000 income groups, and discusses their housing needs, wants and ambitions. As it says, it "invited them to make their individual housing problems a laboratory test tube."

In pursuing this idea, it retained eight of America's foremost architects to design actual houses for these families. Two architects were assigned to each income level—one to plan a modern house, the other an up-to-date traditional house. It is pointed out that building costs in 1938 average a full ten per cent below 1926—and that it is possible, for the same amount, to build a far more efficient, attractive and livable home than you could build ten or twelve years ago.

This country needs more building on a vast scale. It needs it because so many families today live in inadequate houses, and can afford better. It needs it because residential construction provides a big answer to the recovery problem. Every dollar spent for a home creates one hour of labor for a workman. It stimulates the great heavy industries, such as metals, cement, and lumber, which are now dormant. Life, and other publications which have taken an interest in this question, are performing a fine public service by dramatizing home-building to the public.

IOU — $43,000,000,000

A few years ago there was a tremendous amount of public concern over the fact that the national debt had passed the $25,000,000,000 point. Today it is forecast that the debt will shortly touch $43,000,000,000—yet public lethargy and indifference could hardly be greater. This gigantic mortgage against the earnings and property of all individuals and all business no longer makes the headlines.

Such indifference is one of the most dangerous phases of the whole problem of debt and taxation. We will never reduce the debt, even as we never will reduce or equalize taxation, without an awakened, aggressive public demand to compel a change. The politicians won't do it for us—they simply inflate it to even higher levels. And that means more taxes and higher taxes, a steadily lessened national income that can be spent for productive purposes—and more hard times in the future.

Wake up to the fact that the public debt is your debt. It is inescapably related to your job, your savings, your opportunities,

But It's True . . . . . !

Although Edison was responsible for all the improvements which have made the electric light what it is today, he did not start the whole business.

It is believed that Monterey's "singing river" owes its fame to echoes which travel sometimes more than 300 miles, through a system of relays.

Keep Up The Good Work

Pessimists who have doubted that the automobile accident rate can be reduced have been happily proven wrong this year, for the rate has gone down sharply since 1937.

Apparently the public ear has finally been opened to the teachings of the safety experts. States and communities have carried on more and better prevention campaigns than in the past. In some areas there has been noticeable improvement in traffic law enforcement, and the arrest and punishment of offenders. Lastly, a start has been made in various states to make accidents impossible by constructing modern highways, without intersections, and with separated lanes that prevent head-on collisions.

We have learned that safe driving is the product of safe thinking. Relatively few drivers are congenitally reckless—and the only cure for this minority is revocation of licenses. Most drivers who cause accidents are simply thoughtless and ignorant. They do not realize the chances they take until a calamity occurs, or the messages of the workers in the accident prevention field reach them and awaken them to their errors.

Now the country must fight all the harder to keep the accident rate down—and to reduce it further. A good start has been made. And the interest and cooperation of everyone is needed if this good record is to be continued.

Economic Highlights

From INDUSTRIAL NEWS REVIEW

In a little more than two months, Congress will convene again. According to most forecasters it will be a far more independent body, so far as White House influence is concerned, than its last few predecessors. The failure of the President's party "purge"—every senator against whom he campaigned was renominated, and his only victory was the defeat by a small margin of Congressman O'Connor of New York—has, the reports say, aroused a belligerent spirit in the hearts of a large number of lawmakers who might have been spending their time sitting on the fence, in fear of making commitments that might cost them votes.

In still another particular this next Congress, unless the unlooked for happens, will be different from those it immediately follows. Legislation dealing with many vexatious domestic problems will be on the calendar. But this will be overshadowed, during a large part of the session at any rate, by proposed legislation arising from the chaotic European and Asiatic situations, and dealing with what this country will do if and when war breaks out.

According to Business Week, suggested "war proposals" for Congress fall into two broad categories: "1. Measures to support domestic economy disturbed by derangement of the normal functioning of trade at home and abroad. 2. Measures anticipating the eventual involvement of the United States—your security. When all of us know that, Washington and the state capitals will hear a concerted public demand for a drastic change in present suicidal fiscal policies of unbalanced budgets and wasteful, extravagant and uncalled for public expenditures.

and this is taken for granted in all quarters of the administration."

To many observers, both kinds of legislation are ominous—for they inevitably mean a tremendous increase in control of government over business and individuals in the event war comes. It is strongly advocated, for instance, that if our trade abroad were thrown out of balance, the government must create machinery to buy, hold and sell both agricultural and industrial products which go into export. And the government would become the virtual czar of the securities markets if a war threw them into chaos.

Going on with the facts, it is said that legislation of the second category has already been prepared for proposal. Under its terms, the government would instantly take over operation of all transport, power and communication industries the day we declared war. It is probable that a law stringently limiting war profits will be passed—this has been advocated by a number of presidents, including Mr. Hoover. The government would be given authority to draft materials and supplies even as it has the power to draft men. There are some who think that something very close to a military dictatorship would be established. It would, of course, be necessary to invest tremendous power in the president, and through him, in the army and navy staffs.

All this may seem far away, but it cannot be discounted when the chance of a European war occurring is as great as it is today. After the "peace" of Munich, practically every foreign observer and correspondent forecast that it would be short lasting, and would result in conflict within three years at the outside. As a result, the legislation that will be proposed, and perhaps passed, at the next Congress to deal with war, will be of great concern to every citizen.

One piece of legislation—the Neutrality Act—may cause something of a storm in House and Senate. Some influential members want to revise the act to greatly limit the President's authority in permitting commercial dealings with embattled nations. The White House wants to retain that authority, and even enlarge it. If matters come to a head, there's likely to be a knock-down-and-drag-out fight over this vital piece of legislation, with no holds barred.

Business is showing considerable vitality. Even when the war scare was at its height, it didn't go back a great deal on the whole, though security prices sagged. Today, with business certain that hostilities have been postponed for some time, it is moving up steadily.

There are some dark spots in the picture, of course. One big one is the dilemma of the railroads—the upshot of the wage negotiations will to a large extent determine the immediate future of this industry. In some areas labor troubles remain an unsettling factor, and there are rumors of more strikes ahead. If these occur on a large scale, the entire outlook could be quickly changed for the worse.

In the meantime, retail trade is improving in most parts of the country, production is picking up in all lines of raw and manufactured goods, and construction is going forward. New life in construction, as a matter of fact, is one of the very best of the business omens.

But, Sir, your thoughts are not good to mention in polite society—It's embarrassing.—Alexander City Outlook.

We add our amen to the thought expressed by the brother of The Winfield Journal. Also, we say to Brother Hall—a little embarrassing would be good for the fellow who votes dry and drinks wet.

On these plutocrats who are able to buy an automobile tag on the very first day of October!—The DeKalb Times.

We happened to notice one of the pretty new 1939 tags on a car the first day of October. . . . an undertaker's automobile. Will that help you any?—Alexander City Outlook.

We even saw one on a car in this town before October 1.

If every citizen did his best to make his town a town of which he might proudly boast, there would be fewer policemen and officers of the law on our payroll.—Luverne Journal.

We should all stop to think about the kind of a town our town would be, if everyone therein was the same sort of guy we are. Serious thought along this line would make any town a better place in which to live.

We will believe that prosperity has returned when we see a generous sprinkling of five-dollar bills on the collection plates of the local churches.—Chambers County News.

Trouble is, when five-dollar bills become plentiful, few of them will find their way to such worthy causes as church collections. We can find too many other things to use them for which we think are more important—alack and alas!

Who WAS That Guy?

What has become of the man who started to fly to California and flew the Atlantic "by mistake?" And what was his name? Forty seconds to recall his name. Funny how soon we forget, isn't it?—The Ft. Payne Journal.

It seems his name was Corrigan, and our last news of him was to the effect he was looking for the Golden Gate Exposition, as we understand he is to appear there next year.

Here's one of those smart sayings we liked: "A watch is something which if you look at long enough, it will be too late to do what you were going to do before you looked at it."—Alexander City Outlook.

Items From The Records

During the year 1935 there were 97,710 persons employed in industrial work in Alabama, with total earnings of $64,884,088, giving each an average annual wage of $664.05. Forest product workers received the lowest wages, while printing, publishing and allied industries paid the highest average wages.

A. C. Hartley, Mathews, in Montgomery County, has one of the best herds of purebred cattle in the South. He has over 100 head of registered bulls, heifers, calves, brood cows on which records go back as far as the sixth generation. He hopes to supply the foundation bulls and brood cows for building up the beef cattle industry in Alabama.

During the fiscal year ending September 30, 1937, the State of Alabama collected in privilege licenses $810,316.05. This was an increase of $92,425.83 over the year ending September 30, 1935. The report now being compiled for the fiscal year just closed is expected to show a slight increase over the preceding year.

Use of Crimson Clover Increases In Alabama

Auburn, Ala.—Emmett Sizemore, district extension supervisor, announced here today that 686 crimson clover farm demonstrations are expected to be established in 20 southeast Alabama counties this fall to show farmers the value of the legume in conserving and improving farm land.

These demonstrations are farms on which the owners and the county agents are planting crimson clover to show other farmers the value of the crop in this section. From time to time the county agents will hold meetings at these farm demonstrations to allow other farmers to learn planting methods and harvesting. In addition, farmers will be shown crops that follow the crimson clover to see the effect it had in improving the crop yields.

More than 300 demonstrations have already been arranged by the county agents and the total number is expected to reach 696 before planting season is over, according to Mr. Sizemore. Leaders in the number of demonstrations anticipated are Tallapoosa with 200, Elmore and Randolph with 75 each, Clay and Coosa with 50 each, and Bullock with 40. Every county shows an increased number of demonstrations over former years, according to Sizemore.

FARMERS RECEIVE PARITY

Auburn, Ala.—Assuming that this year's domestic consumption of cotton will equal that of last year and that the price will remain between 8 and 9 cents, farmers cooperating in the 1938 farm program will receive approximately 17 cents a pound on their domestically consumed cotton, according to A. W. Jones, AAA administrative officer of Alabama. Cotton price adjustment and soil conservation payments on the 1938 crop totals more than $260,000,000.

Agricultural Adjustment In Alabama; Relation To Soil Conservation Practices

(A. W. Jones, AAA Administrative Officer)

The small amount of land available per person in Alabama which forces farmers to try to produce intensively cultivated cash crops that deplete the soil, the rolling topography of the land which makes it subject to severe erosion, and the tariff and freight rate discrimination against the South affects our schools, our health, our financial condition and our very living standards.

Today, I will attempt to show you further effects of these soil-depleting, soil-robbing, income-decreasing problems facing us in Alabama.

I am going to quote some challenging figures and facts that you and I and very other southern farmer and business man should do all in our power to correct.

In Alabama such diseases as pellagra, typhoid fever, malaria, hookworm, and tuberculosis are much more prevalent than in other sections of the country. Due to low income, inefficient diet, and lack of facilities, the control of these common diseases is difficult.

Alabama has far fewer doctors, nurses, and hospital beds per unit of population than any other section of the country. Many rural communities of the South are practically isolated from well trained medical personnel and the people are therefore the greater sufferers from all health hazards.

What about the schools in the South? Have these problems made themselves felt too? Most decidedly so. The South, of which Alabama is a typical state, is attempting to educate one-third of the nation's children with one-sixth of the nation's school revenue. An annual expenditure of 250 millions of dollars would be required to bring the average expenditure per pupil up to the national average. This lack of funds has resulted in shorter terms, few-

PLANNED FARMING PAYS ALABAMA FARMER

Talladega, Ala.—T. J. Watson, test demonstration farmer of Lincoln, Talladega County, Alabama, is doing an almost perfect job of soil building on his farm. Mr. Watson has 460 acres in cultivation and last winter all of it except 15 acres was in some kind of winter cover crop, either vetch, crimson clover, or oats. Before he started using winter cover crops, Mr. Watson used to make about thirty bales of cotton on 150 acres, while last year, after building his soil for several years with these crops, he made 95 bales of cotton on 112 acres. Six bushels of corn used to be about the average production for Mr. Watson. Now he is making from 35 to 40 bushels every year.

Last winter Mr. Watson had in 75 acres of oats and weighed into his warehouse 4,500 bushels, or an average of 60 bushels to the acre. This spring he saved 70 acres of crimson clover for seed and thrashed an average of 275 pounds of clean seed to the acre from this area. He sold 10,000 pounds of crimson clover seed to one man, and smaller amounts to other buyers. Mr. Watson feels that crimson clover seed production is a good money crop for him. He does not believe in having all his eggs in one basket, as he had ten sources of income from his farm last year, selling oats, corn, cotton, cotton seed, crimson clover seed, beans and peas, fat hogs, beef cattle, milk cows, and hay.

Mr. Watson keeps a very accurate record of all his farm enterprises and states that he has averaged over $1.00 a bushel for all the corn that he has fed to hogs in the past year, which is a great deal more than the market price during that period.

AAA PASTURE PAY GIVEN BY LOWERY

Auburn, Ala.—John X. Farmer of Alabama is rapidly turning to the production of more livestock on his farm. For best returns from the livestock he needs more and better pastures. J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, says that by concentrating on a small acreage at first and by utilizing the AAA soil building payments farmers can establish a good pasture without very much expense.

He gives the following pasture payments which can be earned under the AAA program: $1.50 for application of 1,500 pounds of ground limestone or its equivalent; $1.50 for each application of 300 pounds of superphosphate; $1.50 for each application of 500 pounds of basic slag; $3.00 for a full seeding of legumes and grasses.

er grades, less school property and equipment and underpaid teachers.

Next week I will point out other problems and factors that are working against the South's agriculture. It is only through an understanding of our conditions that we can make any progress in improvement.

CLARKE FARMER IS USING HOME FEED

Grove Hill, Ala.—W. E. Robinson, test demonstration farmer here, has utilized home-grown feed and pasture to good advantage. Last year he raised 15 hogs for sale and this year he will market 125 hogs that are in good condition from grazing crops.

Mr. Robinson has fine fertilized pasture on which he allows his sows to run. During the summer he grazed his pigs on corn and cowpeas and this fall is fattening them on Ootootan soybeans and peanuts.

To take care of his pigs next spring he had planted several acres of oats on which the pigs will be grazed after they finish gleaning the peanut field.

Two New Varieties of Sugar Cane Found

Auburn, Ala.—Two new sugarcane varieties that combine disease resistance with many qualities for syrup making — C. P. 29/116 and Co. 290—may largely replace other disease-tolerant varieties now grown in Alabama, says M. D. Harman, extension specialist in syrup and syrup crops at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Produced by plant breeders of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the two new varieties are especially adapted to syrup-producing areas, although they are grown in sugar-producing areas as well.

Tests at Cairo, Ga., Meridian and Poplarville, Miss., show that both varieties grow straight and erect stalks which ordinarily are longer and larger in diameter than those varieties commonly grown in this section. Both varieties strip easily, and this advantage, combined with the fact that they have a smaller number of stalks per ton of cane, makes harvesting much cheaper.

The Co. 290 has yielded good stands consistently on first stubble, usually good stands as a second stubble, and in some instances a good stand on the third stubble. Mr. Harman reports. The C. P. 29/116 has not been tested so widely but preliminary tests show its ratooning qualities will equal, if not exceed, those of Co. 290.

A lower percentage of fiber and relative softness of stalk make possible a greater recovery of juice on low-power mills commonly used in the syrup producing states.

Although neither of the two new varieties is entirely immune from mosaic and red-rot—two of the principal diseases prevalent in all areas where sugarcane is grown—they withstand the effects of the diseases reasonably well.

VOCATIONAL CLASS ACTIVE

The vocational class of the Holtville High School in Elmore County, under direction of J. R. Formby, teacher, is blazing a trail for other high school boys in conservation and protection of wildlife. Beginning only this term, the boys already have canvassed farmers in the district to find out how many farmers burn over their fields. The goal is to reduce or eliminate this practice, which does no good and destroys cover for birds. Two other objectives this year are to urge better observance of game and fish laws and to provide adequate food for birds. According to Mr. Formby, the boys know exactly what they want to do and are going about it in a businesslike manner.

Miss Douglas honored

Miss Louise Douglas was honored Saturday, October 15, at the home of Mrs. William H. Myers with a tea shower. Miss Douglas is to be married to Mr. Claude Burgin, formerly of Montevallo, on October 22.

Miss Douglas, Miss Margaret Burgin, and Mrs. W. G. Burgin formed the receiving line. Mrs. Myers was dressed in pink lace. Mrs. Smith's dress was of royal blue velvet; the honoree was dressed in aqua blue net made with a full skirt; Mrs. Douglas was gowned in pink chiffon; Miss Margaret Burgin's dress was of white satin, and Mrs. Burgin was dressed in white taffeta.

The tea table, spread with lace, was centered with a silver bowl of mixed white and yellow flowers between silver candelabra holding pale yellow tapers. Mrs. B. C. Jackson and Mrs. Charley Mandy presided at the tea services and were assisted in serving by Mrs. Basil Griffin, Mrs. Evans Brogan, Miss Florence Green, Miss Issa Inmon, little Mildred Joyce Myers, and Peggie Smith. The bride's book was kept by Miss Katherine Williams. Mrs. Len Williams and Mrs. Sam Inman displayed the gifts.

U. D. C. Meeting

The U. D. C. met Thursday afternoon, October 13, in the parlor of the Methodist Church. Rev. O. R. Burns gave a most interesting discussion of "The Southern Oracles of the Pulpit." Several piano selections were given by Miss Elsie McBride of Alabama College. The Centerville chapter were guests of the club. After the program a tea was given for the guests. The color scheme of red and white was carried out in the decorations and refreshments. Miss Bessie McCary poured punch. She was assisted by Mrs. F. W. Rogan and Mrs. E. F. Mulkey.

Study Club To Meet

The Montevallo Study Club will meet Wednesday, October 26, at the home of Mrs. W. J. Kennerly with Mrs. G. P. Rogan as co-hostess.

Girl Scout Council Meeting

The Montevallo Girl Scout Council held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. A. W. Vaughan, Thursday afternoon, October 13.

Members present were Mrs. J. L. Appleton, Mrs. O. B. Cooper, Mrs. E. H. Wills, Mrs. A. W. Vaughan, Mrs. E. P. Hood and Miss Minnie Barker.

The Council voted to ask for a national leader to come to Montevallo in the early spring to conduct a training course for leaders and other interested citizens.

Mrs. Vaughan told of the progress of the various Girl Scout troops. There was a discussion of the "little house," but it was decided to wait until the next meeting to take final action. Miss Edith Lindberg of Alabama College was a guest of the Council, and told very interestingly of her summer at Camp Andre. Other guests were Miss Frances Ribble, Miss Harriette Stripling, Miss Jean Kade, Miss Mary Creel, and Miss Elouise Peck.

Mrs. Hood and Mrs. Givhan Attend Meeting for Crippled Children

Mrs. E. P. Hood and Mrs. F. P. Givhan attended the annual meeting of the Alabama Society for Crippled Children in Montgomery, October 12.

This meeting was held at the Jefferson Davis Hotel and was attended by over 200 people interested in crippled children.

Speakers in the morning included Miss Loula Dunn, director, State Department of Public Welfare; Dr. Douglas Cannon, State Department of Health; Mr. A. E. McBride, president, Alabama Education Association; Mr. W. T. Archer, Miss Thelma McGinty and Mr. E. H. Gentry, of the Alabama Society for Crippled Children.

The luncheon speakers were Dr. Earl Conwell, orthopedic surgeon of Birmingham; Dr. Paul Irvine of Auburn, and Dr. Frazier Banks of Birmingham. Others attending from Shelby County were Miss Alice Stallworth and Mrs. Childs, of Columbiana, and Mrs. Z. S. Cowart of Calera.

Mr. Vest Kendrick of Selma visited relatives here Monday.

Clerks' Local

Clerks' Local No. 185 met Tuesday night, October 18, at the Legion Hut. These meetings are showing an atmosphere of renewed interest and activity since the election of new officers. Larger numbers are attending and everyone seems inspired to do his part. These meetings are truly beneficial, both from a business and recreational standpoint. Each member should make it his special duty to be present.

W. M. S. Mission Study

Mrs. O. R. Burns and Mrs. C. H. Mahaffey, leaders, directed the mission study program on "The American City and its Church," which took place last week. These daily sessions were held in the home of Mrs. O. R. Burns.

The devotionals were given by Mrs. T. H. Napier, Mrs. J. L. Appleton, Mrs. Mary McCoy, Mrs. Kate Cook and Rev. O. R. Burns.

The outline and resume of the text was given by Mrs. Burns for the initial program. Tuesday's topic was the church and the community. On Wednesday, Mrs. Mahaffey talked on the Christian home and the church. A discussion followed which included the school and the church.

Thursday Mrs. Bruce of the sociology department of Alabama College talked with the group on our community conditions. Mrs. Bruce gave many interesting incidents from local and other experiences and conducted discussions pertaining to vital problems of community interest. Mrs. Mahaffey conducted a church survey of the town, assisted by representatives from the other church groups and the Friday program was a follow-up of the survey, when Rev. O. R. Burns spoke on the unchurched of our community. A special hour on Friday concluded the study. Mrs. Mahaffey was in charge of arrangements for the tea. Mrs. Napier served punch from a beautifully appointed table.

There was an average attendance of sixteen members for the session and thirteen of these received council credit.

Wednesday Afternoon Club

The Wednesday Afternoon Club met last Wednesday with Mrs. A. C. Anderson. Members attending were Mesdames J. I. Riddle, F. H. Frost, R. A. Reid, M. L. Orr, T. H. Napier, J. I. Reid, J. L. Appleton, M. P. Jeter, and guests were Mrs. J. L. Bridges, Miss Minnie Steckel, and Miss Maggie Bell Turner, the latter a cousin of the hostess, who assisted in serving the delicious salad course.

Business and Professional Women

The regular monthly meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club was held at the Hotel St. George Monday night, October 17. New business centered around the attendance of a Montevallo group at the luncheon in honor of Mrs. Roosevelt in Birmingham October 26, and at the Women's Joint Legislative Council luncheon to be held at the Tutwiler Hotel October 29. A public relations banquet was announced for November 7. The club also voted to support the other local organizations in their plans to for the beautification of the Montevallo cemetery.

The remainder of the evening was devoted to committee reports with the purpose of acquainting new members with the work of the club. The meeting closed with the serving of refreshments.

Mr. P. M. Cain, Jr., a student at Auburn, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Cain.

Mrs. Ida Hendrick spent Friday in Calera, the guest of Mrs. Z. S. Cowart.

At The Strand Theatre Thursday and Friday

Deanna Durbin and her screen daddy, Herbert Marshall in Universal's "Mad About Music"

Deanna Sings Four Songs In New Film

"Three Smart Girls" was a surprise, bringing to the screen a fresh, sparkling and lovable little star. "100 Men and a Girl" was a revelation of the tremendous singing abilities of this amazing youngster, and "Mad About Music," at the Strand Thursday and Friday, is an astounding display of both acting and singing. The producers of "Mad About Music" have boldly thrown Deanna into a story that demands the utmost in acting talent. And 15-year old Deanna handles the difficult assignment with ease and assurance.

As entertainment, "Mad About Music" excels either of her previous pictures, although it departs entirely in theme and structure from "Three Smart Girls" or "100 Men and a Girl." Her new production is almost entirely comedy-drama, but with a story that lends itself to several highly emotional passages, heart-gripping in their intensity, bringing tears in their wake much as did the finale of "100 Men and a Girl." The tears are immediately followed by comedy sequences, forcing smiles. It is this procession of smiles and tears which makes "Mad About Music" a great picture. It's a Universal film.

Three youngsters have important roles in the production. These are Marcia Mae Jones and Jackie Moran, in the roles of Deanna's friends, and Helen Parish, who is her enemy.

Deanna sings four songs in the production, three of them, "I Love to Whistle," "Serenade to the Stars" and "Chapel Bells" by Harold Adamson and Jimmie McHugh. The fourth is "Ave Maria" by Gounod.

Miss Gene Lewis Is Chosen As Cadet

Miss Gene Lewis has attained distinction in being chosen as honorary cadet colonel of the Second regiment coast artillery in the Reserve Officers Training Corps of the University of Alabama.

Miss Lewis, a senior in the School of Education, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Lewis, of Montevallo. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Being sponsor of a military group in the R. O. T. C. is one of the greatest honors that can come to a girl at the University. It is really beautiful to watch the weekly parades when these sponsors march with the various units on the quadrangle.

Miss Lewis will receive a regular army commission from Washington. As one of the "Military Misses" she will lead the annual military ball in December with her cadet commander.

LEGISLATURE HAD ONLY $6,962,000 TO APPROPRIATE

State Chamber Makes Study of Alabama's Income and Reports Findings

Montgomery, Ala.—Only $6,962,000 out of the State of Alabama's gross receipts for the fiscal year ending September 30th, 1937, were available for appropriation by the state legislature, according to a study of state receipts and disbursements made by the Committee on Government of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce at the request of Mr. Benjamin Russell, president. Members of the state chamber government committee who made the study were: Gen. John C. Persons, chairman, Dr. Lee Bidgood, Donald Comer, H. A. Pharr, J. W. Scott, and M. H. Sterne.

In releasing the report of the committee here today, Mr. Russell stated he requested the study because of apparently widespread confusion as to the amount of money actually available to the legislature. "The figure of $71,000,000 has frequently been given," Mr. Russell said, "as the state's income for the fiscal year, but the amount of cash actually handled by the state, after eliminating interdepartment transactions, was only $58,000,000. This $58,000,000 included social security collections, federal grants and money turned over to counties and only $34,000,000 was left for all state operations. Schools, roads and other earmarked funds accounted for all of this $34,000,000 except $8,700,000, of which amount debt service and social security absorbed approximately $1,740,000, leaving only about $6,960,000 for appropriation by the legislature."

Mr. Russell's letter to the Committee on Government of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce and the Committee's report follows:

Alexander City, Ala.
October 8, 1938

General John C. Persons,
Chairman, Committee on Government,
Alabama State Chamber of Commerce,
Birmingham, Alabama.

Dear General Persons:

Several members of the legislature, as well as private citizens who are interested in governmental affairs, have suggested to me that the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce could render a distinct public service by making a study of the income of the State of Alabama with a view to ascertaining what proportion of the state's total income will be available the coming year for maintenance of those departments of the state which are not supported by earmarked funds.

In view of the approaching session of the legislature, when many problems of appropriation and taxation must be considered, it seems to me that it would be most timely and most helpful if such a study could be made. I hope that it is possible for your committee to undertake this study now and present your findings at an early date for the enlightenment of those interested in the financial status of our state government. I am confident that your effort in the matter would be appreciated, not only by those directly concerned with legislative matters, but also by the general public which is manifesting such a heartening interest in governmental problems.

Yours very truly,
Benjamin Russell, President,
Alabama State Chamber of Commerce,
Alexander City, Alabama.

Birmingham, Alabama
October 13, 1938

Mr. Benjamin Russell, President
Alabama State Chamber of Commerce
Alexander City, Alabama.

Dear Mr. Russell:

In response to your letter of October 8th, the Committee on Government of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce attaches hereto a statement of the receipts and disbursements of the State of Alabama for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1937.

The figures are taken from reports of the State Treasurer and Comptroller. This statement is condensed and simplified.

Your attention is called to the difference between gross and net figures and to the many earmarked funds. Anyone examining these figures should keep these two distinctions constantly in mind in order to arrive at the true net funds available for general purposes.

You will see from this statement that only $8,706,000 of the State's income was available for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1937, for the general fund or appropriation by the Legislature. Of this sum $929,000 was used for debt service on harbor and renewal bonds, which is an annual charge until bonds are paid, and $815,000 was used for Social Security purposes and was earmarked for that specific purpose.

The balance of the income, viz., $6,962,000, was available for appropriation and expenditure by the Legislature. The main items of expenditure are shown on the statement.

Nineteen thirty-eight figures are not yet available. When they are ready your committee will supplement its report and analyze them. From information now in hand it appears that the 1937 receipts will be exceeded. The gross figures may reach a total of around $90,000,000, but in our opinion only a relatively small part of this increase will be income available for State expenditure.

Very truly yours,
H. A. Pharr
Lee Bidgood
Donald Comer
J. W. Scott
M. H. Sterne
John C. Persons, Chairman
Committee on Government

Fiscal Year Ending September 30, 1937

Gross receipts in all funds.....$71,548,000

Each department is required to account for all funds which it handles regardless of the source of the funds and large amounts are accounted for in more than one department; for instance, the Highway Department transfers something like $2,500,000 a year from gas tax and tag tax receipts into the debt service fund, and very nearly all the amount received from the sales tax is transferred to various other funds. The total of such interdepartmental transactions plus a small amount of refunds was.....13,274,000

This leaves the cash actually received by the State $58,274,000 Included in the above are:

Collections on account of Social Security statutes $7,242,000
Federal grants for road construction and various other purposes.....6,544,000
Warrants representing gasoline tax funds anticipated.....1,750,000
Operating fund of A.B.C. stores 352,000

Total funds collected by the State but not available for state purposes.....15,888,000

Balance of Revenue.....$42,386,000
Taxes levied and collected by the State and turned over to counties and cities, principally gasoline tax and sales tax.....8,121,000

Amount applicable to State operations.....$34,265,000

The greater part of the amount applicable to State operations consists of earmarked funds. The large items are:

Motor vehicle tax, three-cent gasoline tax and certain other revenues available only for road debt service, construction and maintenance. (Not including $4,459,000 Federal funds).....$11,611,000

Funds for education, including tobacco tax, various severance taxes, a portion of sales tax, three mills ad valorem tax, poll tax and various other taxes (including some appropriations and transfers).....12,794,000

Income tax, dedicated by constitutional amendment solely to payment of Refunding Bonds until all bonds are provided for, and thereafter to be used to reduce ad valorem taxes.....2,010,000

Sunday In The Churches

BAPTIST

"Regardless of Consequences" will be the pastor's theme at the Sunday morning service. Sunday evening we will join in a union service at Palmer Hall. This service is part of the program of Religious Emphasis Week, sponsored by the College Y. W. C. A. Rev. Charles R. Bell, pastor of the Parker Memorial Baptist Church, of Anniston, will be the speaker.

The Missionary Society will meet at the church at 3 p.m. Monday.

W. A. DENSON QUILTS GOVERNOR'S RACE

Secretary of State Howell Turner announced receipt Monday of withdrawal of W. A. Denson, Birmingham, as an independent candidate for governor in the November 8 general election. Denson's letter requested that his name not be printed on the ballot. Airmailed and registered, the letter gave the return address of 109 1st Street, N. E., Washington.

Red Cross Nurses Aid Million Sick

Red Cross public health nurses made more than one million visits to or on behalf of the sick during the fiscal year 1937-38.

The patients live in mountain communities, on islands off the coast, in isolated swamp regions, and in crowded industrial sections. During the same period the nurses inspected 559,187 school children for health defects in cooperation with local physicians, and gave instructions in home hygiene and care of the sick to 58,754 mothers and young girls.

Join the Red Cross Chapter in your community during the Roll Call, November 11 to 24.

Red Cross Volunteers Assist War Veterans

Red Cross workers in chapters, in hospitals and on posts of the Army, Navy, Coast Guard, and Marine Corps, assisted 122,355 active service men or veterans or their families during the past 12 months.

Red Cross service to these men included such personal help as letter-writing, shopping and recreational leadership, but it also included financial assistance to their dependents, help in locating missing members of their families, and assistance in filing necessary applications for pensions, disability pay, hospitalization, or for discharge from active service because of home needs.

The average number of men assisted by Red Cross workers each month was 18,790, according to a recent report.

FOOTBALL

Montevallo went up against a heavy, hard charging Centerville eleven without doing any damage whatsoever. They came away on the short end of a 21-6 score.

Centerville scored touchdowns in all quarters except the third and in that period their halfback Sneed fumbled and Dement of Montevallo recovered behind his own goal line resulting in a safety for Centerville.

Montevallo scored their only touchdown in the second period when R. Lovelady went over on a delayed end run. Outstanding backfield men for Montevallo were Lovelady and Vaughan. Linemen who starred were Williamson and Nix.

Montevallo sorely missed their regular left tackle Judge Martin who was kept out of the game by illness.

Montevallo is to play Vincent at 1:15 p.m. Friday, October 21.

STOCK LAW ELECTION

Cooper Shaw Endorses Waldrop for Sheriff

To the Voters of Shelby County:

While I do not take any active interest in politics, I want to bring to your attention a matter which I think is important relative to the election of a Sheriff of Shelby County, which we will do on November 8.

I am a Democrat, and have always supported the principles of the Democratic party. In the coming election I am convinced that we should vote for the man who gives promise of a new deal in the Sheriff's office. And it happens now that the man is Emmett Waldrop, the Republican nominee for Sheriff.

Personally I have known Mr. Waldrop intimately since 1925. I worked for him for five years, and I know he is a man of the highest integrity, honest, trustworthy, and thoroughly capable of filling the office of Sheriff. I know that the principles for which he stands and the manner in which he upholds those principles will give us a new deal in the Sheriff's office. I believe that everyone, regardless of politics, will admit that this is what we need in Shelby County.

I want to say to my friends that I hope you will study carefully the qualifications of Mr. Waldrop. When you do this, I believe you will be convinced that he is the man we should elect for Sheriff. If you will support him, I believe you will be glad of it in the future, and I assure you I will appreciate it.

Respectfully,

COOPER SHAW

BOY SCOUTS

Overnight Camp

The Boy Scouts are planning to take an overnight camping trip to the hut out at Thomas' Mill. The group has made camp there before, and as I remember, there was little, if any, sleep. We are hoping to go this Friday, but if the weather is too wet we shall have to postpone the trip to a later date.

Football Games

When we get back from camp there will be several 6-man football games among the patrols. The Bob White Patrol will play the Unknown Patrol at 3 o'clock. The Cat Patrol will play the Flying Eagle Patrol at 4 o'clock.

Good Deed

I was reminded of an important bit of excitement that I forgot in the account of our last week's trip to the caves. On the way back we had the pleasure of putting out a small forest fire. The Boy Scouts are always glad to help in matters of this sort whenever they can.

Year's Best Screen Entertainment Is "Four Daughters" at Strand

A charming, heartbreakingly human comedy drama about life in a musical family of lovely daughters, occasionally ruffled by the masculine world outside, "Four Daughters," which comes to the Strand Theatre Sunday and Monday, is one of the finest pictures ever made, and one of which the entire motion picture industry must be justifiably proud. Based on a story by Fannie Hurst from which Julius J. Epstein and Lenore Coffee wrote the screen play, the picture has all the ingredients that make for grand cinema—superb acting, the inspired direction of Michael Curtiz, and exquisite photography.

A marvelous meaningful character, played by John Garfield, recently of the Broadway stage, is one of the greatest contributions the film offers to screen history. He is a fascinating fatalist, reckless, poor and unhappy, who is insufferably rude to everybody, except Priscilla Lane, (whom he loves), and who assumes as a matter of course that all of Fate's cards are stacked against him. The picture is also a triumph for Priscilla Lane, who is animated, attractive and intelligent and infuses her role of the youngest daughter with a deep and human warmth; for Jeffrey Lynn, another screen newcomer, destined to set feminine hearts a-flutter, and who knows how to be handsome without being offensive; for Claude Rains, as the musical father; for Rosemary Lane as the singer of the family; for Lola Lane as the ambitious daughter; for Gale Page as the quiet homebody; and for May Robson as the old aunt.

Into the Garden of Eden household of Rains and his four daughters, which is presided over by May Robson, come four suitors for his four girls. First to come is Lynn, a young musician with whom they all fall in love. Then comes John Garfield, as the cynical young arranger, Frank McHugh, a stuffy business man, and Dick Foran, a florist. And the story tells of the romances, the joys and sorrows of the four girls, who are intensely devoted to each other and willing to make any sacrifices to insure each other's happiness.

And then the storm and strife of their tangled romances are over, the family—a little wiser, a little older, a little sadder—settle back into the normal even tenor of their lives.

LOCAL NEWS OF CALERA

IN MEMORIAM

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Harris

Dear Mom and Dad you have left me,
And your smile I see no more.
My heart is filled with sadness,
For no time can heal that sore.
Soft and bright the stars are shining
Spreading o'er lonely graves,
Where lie the ones I loved so dearly,
Whom we tried so hard
But could not save.

Their Daughter,
Mrs. L. C. Ozley

Legion Post

Ware-Crim Post No. 56 met last Monday evening in the city hall for the regular meeting. Plans were discussed for raising funds for the Christmas packages to be given the needy children. The following committee was appointed to complete plans: Messrs. W. B. Ozley, David Norwood and A. T. Ryan.

Garden Club

Mrs. R. C. Curtis entertained the Garden Club in her home last Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. W. B. Blevins as co-hostess. The president, Miss Lucy Norwood, called the meeting to order. Mrs. Dick Martin read for approval the new yearbook.

Mrs. George Lehman, program chairman, gave a very interesting program. Those taking part were Mesdames R. L. Holcombe, A. F. Seales and George Lehman. After the program, the president presided during a business meeting. Various committees were appointed. Mrs. G. C. Burk was voted a new member of the club. During the social hour delicious refreshments were served to twenty-three members and five visitors. Prizes were awarded to Mesdames R. H. Parker, Dick Martin and Marion Jones for one hundred per cent attendance during last year.

Phebean Class

Mrs. Jasper Holcombe entertained the Phebean Class Wednesday afternoon. The meeting was opened with an interesting devotion by Mrs. T. J. Halfacre. Mrs. C. D. Cowart presided during the business meeting. Various reports were given and plans were discussed for beautifying our class room. Mrs. G. C. Burk dismissed the meeting for the social hour. Delicious cake was served to Mesdames T. J. Halfacre, C.

Civitan Club

The regular meeting of the Civitan Club of Calera was held at the school auditorium Wednesday, October 5th, at 7:30 p.m. A very interesting program was rendered. After being served a delicious meal by the P. T. A., the president, R. E. Bowdon, Jr., presided over the business meeting. It was unanimously agreed that the Civitan Club would sponsor the Boy Scouts. The following members were appointed as counsel: C. D. Cowart, J. R. Edwards, and P. H. Barnes.

James N. Castleberry of Prattville was presented by Mr. Fred Allen. Mr. Castleberry delivered an able address on cooperation. He emphasized that opportunities were knocking at our door, and urged united cooperation in all matters. Mr. Castleberry is a forceful and impressive speaker, and created increased enthusiasm.

It has already been shown that organization of the Civitan Club here was an important move. Encouraging developments are distinctly noticeable. It is fortunate for Calera that the members of the Civitan Club are enthusiastic in their determination to put forth their best efforts in all matters that tend to promote and advance the welfare of Calera, and Shelby County as a whole.

HEALTH CONDITIONS HELP STATE TOURIST TRADE

Montgomery, Ala. — "Alabama's reputation as a state where excellent health conditions prevail is one of its greatest assets in the competition for tourists," Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, said today in commenting upon a recent estimate that approximately 422,000 persons from other states and from foreign countries become temporary Alabamians every year.

"Let a serious epidemic develop and the impression get abroad that a person takes a chance of contracting a serious illness by drinking Alabama water, eating Alabama food, sleeping in Alabama hotels and tourist camps, or associating with Alabama people, and you will see Alabama's beautiful highways become virtual strangers to 'foreign' cars," he said. "It is the responsibility of the State Department of Health and the 67 county health departments to prevent such a disaster from occurring. These agencies maintain special machinery to protect the health of all those residents of this state and of other states, who depend for food and shelter upon such facilities as may be at hand when hunger or sleepiness overtakes them while away from home."

Dr. Baker called attention to vital statistics reports showing marked reductions since 1915 in the death rates for typhoid, whooping cough,

Conservation Exhibits Attract Thousands At Two Fairs

Exhibits of the Department of Conservation at the Birmingham State Fair and the Florence North Alabama Fair attracted thousands of visitors and proved to be one of the most popular features of the fairs. Under direction of J. M. White, field assistant to Commissioner I. T. Quinn, the exhibit was set up at the Birmingham exposition the last week in September. It included several tanks of fish, among them the black bass and bream. Several crates of live Bobwhite quail from the state game farm also were on display. A collection of live snakes belonging to Dr. Walter B. Jones, state geologist and president of the Alabama Wildlife Federation, was another attraction. There were also a number of mounted specimens of game and fish. The exhibit was transferred to the Florence fair October 3 and stayed there a week.

MEDICAL ASSOCIATION GIVES RADIO PROGRAM

Montgomery, Ala.—Radio listeners in all parts of the state were urged today by Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, to tune in on the weekly programs sponsored by the American Medical Association, which were resumed for the 1938-39 season October 19.

"These programs will be heard at 1 p.m. (Central Standard Time) every Wednesday through stations of the Blue Network of the National Broadcasting Company," he said. "They do not consist of health talks, but are half-hour dramatizations written and produced by professional radio artists, with orchestra accompaniment. They are prepared on the basis of information furnished by the A.M. A.'s Bureau of Health Education. They are intended to supplement, dramatize and enrich health instruction in the schools, but do not take the place of classroom instruction, textbooks or project reading."

Miss Mary Hilda Peters spent Monday in Birmingham.

P. T. A. Regular Meeting Tuesday Night

The Montevallo Parent-Teachers Association held its second regular meeting of the year in the Elementary School Auditorium on Tuesday evening. This being a night meeting, the attendance was unusually good. The meeting opened with the singing of several popular songs, led by Mrs. Waller of the training school faculty. The wholehearted response of the audience to this part of the program, helped, materially, to get the meeting off to a good start. During the few minutes devoted to the business of the organization, reports from the executive board and membership committee were heard. The executive board in its report recommended that all future meetings of the P. T. A. be held in the evenings, and that certain days be set aside each month for parents to visit the school where they might discuss matters relating to their children with teachers of the school. The board also recommended that the policy of having hostesses for each meeting be continued. Discontinuance of the policy of receiving reports from each committee, except at certain specified intervals during the year was recommended. This report was accepted in its entirety.

Record Membership

Mrs. F. H. Frost, chairman of the membership committee, reported the largest enrollment of members in the history of the organization, one hundred and sixty-five members having paid their dues to date. This committee hopes to increase this number materially by the first of the year, which is the date set for receiving its final report.

Tidwell Speaker

Mrs. Tidwell, program chairman, gave a brief outline of the programs for the year and introduced her husband, Mr. W. F. Tidwell, as the speaker of the evening. Mr. Tidwell presented a brief outline of the study which he and the faculty of the training school had made relative to the family and social life of the students which are represented in the school, and the methods which are being employed to help these students in their problems. This proved to be a most interesting discussion, and the training school faculty is to be commended for the fine work which they are accomplishing in helping to assist students with their everyday problems.

Refreshments

Following the adjournment of the meeting, a social hour was held, refreshments being served by the hostesses who, for this meeting, consisted of the chairmen of the various committees of the organization.

GIRL SCOUTS

Tuesday, October 18, a meeting was held by Troop 2, Girl Scouts of Montevallo. We assembled in the usual place, the side steps of Palmer Hall. Christmas cards were one of the first things to come up. We hope to sell lots of boxes, because the money is to be put into uniforms for the girls. We know that the people in the community will co-operate with us by buying the cards.

Miss Frances Roberts, a student at Alabama College, is going to help us this year. She is a Mariner from Birmingham and has twenty-six badges. That is something we consider almost next to impossible. Later we went over to the flag pole on the campus, where we had a color ceremony. Miss Louise Peck arranged it with one girl from each patrol. After that, Pat Weems was awarded six badges that she earned during the past year. She got the photographer, swimmer, life saver, home nurse, health winner and scholarship badges.

Our captain, Miss Frances Ribble, attended the meeting for the first time. The following girls were present: Peggie Davis, Sara Jo Lacey, Edna Wells, Pat Weems, Edine Sellers, Alice Rae Clemons, Frances Nybeck, Annie Mae Davis, Sara Henry Reynolds, Virginia Barnes, Carolyn Ray, Mary Jean Kennerly, Catherine Adams, June Mitchum, Billie Louise Mitchell, Tootsie Clayton, Irma Cunningham, Mayo Baker, Betty Cain, Julia Rogan and Dama Wills.

Friends of Mrs. W. D. Reynolds will be sorry to learn that she is seriously ill in a hospital in Selma.

Auditor's Report Of Town Finance

Montevallo's Business Operations
Are Said To Be In Good Condition

Mayor Charles T. Acker has submitted to The Times a copy of the auditor's report of the business operations of the Town of Montevallo as of September 30, 1938.

The report shows assets of cash in the bank, $4,450.19. This amount is represented in different funds as follows: General fund $1,546.67; the bridge sinking fund $561.52; school bond sinking fund $1,000; sanitary sewer fund $1,342.

Sanitary sewer assessments receivable were shown as $4,047.45.

The report shows bonds outstanding: Bridge $3,000; school $15,800; sewer $5,700; total $24,500.

Concerning the paving assessment fund the report says: "This fund is not taken into account in the statement of financial condition, as the town has parted with ownership of the assessments receivable."

In the statement of revenues and expenses for the year ending September 30, 1938, the report shows receipts of the town as follows:

General fund: Real and personal property taxes $2,618.16; business licenses $3,270.27; gasoline tax $2,466.37; fines and costs $230.50; cement.

Mrs. W. B. Reynolds Died In Hospital

Mrs. W. B. Reynolds, widow of the late W. B. Reynolds, of Montevallo, died late Monday in a hospital in Selma, where she had been under treatment for about ten days. Mrs. Reynolds had been in ill health for several months.

The body was brought back to her home in Montevallo and funeral services were held Tuesday at the Presbyterian Church, conducted by Rev. W. A. Alexander, of Birmingham. Burial was in Montevallo cemetery, with Brinslin of Selma and Rogan of Montevallo in charge.

Mrs. Reynolds is survived by her cousin, Mrs. George Craig, who has lived with her since childhood; two sisters, Mrs. E. D. Reynolds and Mrs. Sam Morgan, of Faunsdale; her sister-in-law, Mrs. F. W. Rogan, of Montevallo. Before her marriage Mrs. Reynolds was Martha Walker, daughter of Mr. Mims Walker of Faunsdale.

She was a faithful and active member of the Montevallo Presbyterian Church. Her husband died in 1928. He was a son of Capt. H. C. Reynolds, first president of Alabama College.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Russell and children were guests of Mrs. J. H. Weems in Meridian, Miss., Sunday.

NOTED POET

CARL SANDBURG, who will appear in a program at Palmer Hall November 2. This will be the second program of the Concert and Lecture series.

Carl Sandburg Noted Literary Figure Here November 2

Carl Sandburg, one of the best known and universally admired literary figures of the time, will speak before the students and faculty of Alabama College in Palmer Hall Wednesday evening, November 2.

His lecture will be the second presentation of the year in the Concert and Lecture series.

Called by some "America's most truly native poet," Carl Sandburg, like the troubadours of old, has traveled about the country reading his poems, singing folk songs and collecting ballads. He is said to be a master interpreter of his own verse, in recitation or song.

William B. Owen, of Chicago Teachers College, says, "Carl Sandburg's voice should be perpetuated on records, for like the voice of Tennyson, it is an unforgettable part of his poems."

For his most famous poem, "Chicago," Sandburg in 1914 was awarded the Levinson Prize by the magazine, "Poetry." Two years later he published his first volume, "Chicago Poems." In 1919 and 1921 he shared half the award of the Poetry Society of America. In 1923 he was given the honorary degree of Doctor of Literature by Lombard College, and in 1928 he was Phi Beta Kappa poet at Harvard University.

Sandburg's first biographical work, "Abraham Lincoln—The Prairie Years," appeared in 1926 as the first of a three-volume comprehensive study of Lincoln. This book won new honor for Sandburg, but he is best loved as poet and bard.

ENON BAPTIST CHURCH

Word has been received from Rev. R. R. Brasher, pastor of the Enon Baptist Church, to the effect that he will hold services at that church on next Sunday, October 30. All members please take notice.

Mr. W. C. Weems went to the Veterans Hospital in Tuscaloosa Monday where he will remain for treatment a while.

Local Representatives To Women's Council

Miss Lelah Brownfield and Dr. Minnie L. Steckel will represent the Montevallo Branch of Business and Professional Women's Clubs at the meeting of the Women's Joint Legislative Council of Alabama, to be held in Birmingham Saturday, October 29.

This council, which is made up of eight different women's organizations active in this state, sponsors and endorses various bills which come up before the legislature and works towards their passage.

This year the Business and Professional Women's Club is sponsoring the movement toward establishment of a really secret ballot, the movement toward jury service for women, and toward Alabama ratification of the Child Labor Amendment. It is endorsing the poll tax reform, selective sterilization of mental defectives and criminal insane, and the establishment of the merit system in state and local government.

SOME OPINIONS ABOUT THE COMMUNITY CHEST

Montevallo's Community Chest has gone through one year of successful operation. Now our citizens are being solicited to make contributions to carry on the Chest for another year.

In connection with the present campaign to secure pledges to the Chest, The Times has sought to obtain from a number of our citizens their frank opinion about the Chest plan.

This question was asked: "Just why do you contribute to the Community Chest?" Following is a list of the answers we received:

Mayor Charles T. Acker—It is my opinion that the Community Chest represents the one sane and practical way of handling the emergency needs of the community.

President A. F. Harman—My reason for enjoying participation in the Community Chest lies principally in the fine significance of the word "community." In this worthy enterprise we are all working together and giving of our substance for the happiness of ourselves; we are the community.

Dr. Hallie Farmer, member of City Council—I support the Montevallo Community Chest because I believe it is the best way to carry my share of community responsibility and because I know that the small amount I can afford to give will be spent more wisely than I could spend it myself.

T. H. Napier, president of the Merchants and Planters Bank—I favor the Community Chest because it can administer community funds more judiciously than can possibly be done by private individuals.

Mr. T. E. Watson, manager of the Strand Theatre—The Chest makes the citizens more conscious of the needs of the community and creates a more neighborly atmosphere in the town.

Temperature of the Community Chest

The big thermometer on the Kennerly lot across the street from the postoffice Wednesday afternoon showed the temperature of the Community Chest Fund at 1133. This means that $1,133.50 of the $1,700 requested has been received in cash and pledges.

"I want to see the temperature rise at least a hundred degrees a day until it goes out at the top on next Sunday," said Postmaster Bob Reid, chairman of the Chest Board.

Dr. A. W. Vaughan, chairman and his solicitation group are putting on the steam this week, extending to every person in Montevallo an opportunity to make a pledge. The campaign will continue the remainder of this week.

Everyone is urged to make disposition of this matter now. By the time the campaign closes next Sunday it is hoped that the temperature shown on the board will be above the 1,700 mark.

Mr. W. J. Kennerly, president of the P. T. A.—This cooperative effort which is launched each year in our community has enabled the P. T. A. to carry forward its work in an unhampered manner, making it unnecessary to solicit funds in

ALAN GRESKY ELECTED VICE- PRESIDENT OF CLASS

University, Ala.—Alan Gresky, of Montevallo, has been elected vice-president of the freshman class of the University of Alabama School of Medicine, after-election returns revealed today.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends of the surrounding community for their kindness shown to us during the illness and death of our dear baby. Also for the beautiful floral offerings.—Mr. and Mrs. Fernon Moore.

New Telephone System Practically Assured

The City Council of Montevallo on October 24 by unanimous vote passed a resolution approving a proposed conversion from the present type of telephone service to a modern dial system. This resolution was in accordance with the written desire for such a change as expressed by over eighty-five per cent of the telephone subscribers in Montevallo, representing ninety-six per cent of all telephones in service. It seems assured that our city may, in a few months, boast that there is not a city or town in the state or the entire United States which has a more up-to-date or better service than ours.

While we in Montevallo, along with most of the other smaller cities, have experienced some very difficult times for several years, we have probably suffered less and have moved faster than the average city of our size. This has been largely due to the economical advantages we enjoy on account of our splendid state college being located here. However, the untiring efforts of our public spirited citizens to make of our city a better, bigger and more desirable place to live in has been a big factor in our development.

We are particularly blessed in having as a part of our community those splendid men and women connected with our good schools (Continued on Back page, Col. 3)

Dr. Pearson Blasts Jack-Pot Business

A Friendly Letter To The Business Men of The Town of Montevallo

My Dear Friends:

It is with all sincerity that I call you my friends, for such you are. You have been very gracious and have shown me many kindnesses for all of which I am deeply grateful. Always you have been very responsive and cooperative in matters pertaining to the welfare of the community. For all the high-mindedness and generosity which you have shown I have the highest regard.

With confidence that you want to keep your business on a high level, both in principal and in practice, I am appealing to you, as a friend, not to include the jack pot in any form in your "trade days" this year. I cannot believe that you are willing to degrade your business ideals to the gambling basis. The only appeal of the jack pot is to the gambling spirit, to the game of chance with the idea of getting something for nothing. That is the thing back of all lotteries and gambling devices. Fundamentally, it is contrary (Continued on page 2, col. 3)

"Thanks A Million" Says Mrs. Potts

On last Friday afternoon a car stopped at my house and a little boy whom I have loved all of his six years came in to ask if there was a place in my room for a "new piece of furniture." I couldn't imagine what the box contained as it was brought in by four friends. I was too excited to read the words printed on the side. However, it did not take me long to find out that my new furniture was a lovely six tube Silverstone radio receiving set, complete with batteries and super air charger. (So I have new furniture on my roof too.)

The "card" attached was a list of 168 names, and I want to say "Thanks A Million!" to each one of my 168 friends who helped to make it possible for me, though I am confined to my bed, to attend church services, plays, concerts, ball games, and so many other very interesting things—the sky seems to be the limit. When you tune in your own radio I hope you will be just a little happier for having brought me happiness. I am listening in too!—Mrs. Russell Potts (Sara Cooper).

D.A.R. Meeting

The David Lindsay Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met at the home of Mrs. C. G. Sharp on Monday evening, October 25, with Mrs. W. J. Kennerly, the regent, presiding. Mrs. Willis Lyman, the new chaplain, conducted the ritual.

Attractive year books were ready for distribution, the program having been arranged by Mrs. H. D. LeBaron and Dr. W. A. Peck. Chapter committees for the new year were named by the regent as follows: National Defense, Mrs. E. D. Reynolds; Conservation, Mrs. O. R. Burns; Student Loans, Mrs. E. H. Wills; Approved Schools, Mrs. T. H. Napier; Americanism, Mrs. C. G. Sharp; Ellis Island, Mrs. E. G. Little; Historical Magazine, Miss Josephine Eddy; Publicity, Mrs. A. W. ### NEW TRUCK COMING

We are advised by Mayor Acker that the new town fire truck will be here in a few weeks. The delay, he said, is caused by the manufacturer's waiting to get a new 1939 Chevrolet chassis to mount it upon.

TOWN FINANCES

The financial report of Montevallo for last year reveals a most satisfactory condition. It further impresses us that we have a board of officials who are running our business in a most creditable manner.

ONE AT A TIME

The Town Council considered the question of "stumps" in the street Monday night. "We decided to take up the stumps one at a time," reported by Mayor Acker. Councilman Red Mahan says the one under the traffic light will be the first victim.

TOWN OFFICIALS

Following the report of the Hammondville case recently published in the daily papers (reproduced in this week's Times), the question of tenure of municipal officials in Montevallo was raised. Mayor Acker reports that official advice has been received stating that Montevallo officers were duly elected, according to law, for a term of four years.

WE STRUCK A STUMP

Red Mahan sorta got his dander up when he read our reference last week to the "stump" in the street. Fortunately for the editor, Red was sick in bed when he read it, and could not get hold of us until he had time to cool off. Then everything was ok. Maybe it was his lumbago that was working on him more than what we wrote.

The Legion Auxiliary

Hendrick - Hudson Unit No. 96, American Legion Auxiliary, met in regular session at the home of Mrs. J. L. Appleton, on Thursday, October 20. The Lord's Prayer introduced the meeting. The pledge of allegiance to the flag was given, followed by singing of the "Star-Spangled Banner." The preamble was given in concert.

The business session included arrangements for representation at the fifth district conference to convene in Birmingham on the 25th, cooperation in the cemetery project now before the various organizations and a memorial to war dead. Mrs. M. P. Jeter gave a report from the recent national convention in Los Angeles, California. A social hour concluded the meeting, when the hostess served a salad course to the guests. Those attending were Mesdames M. P. Jeter, R. P. Holcomb, Glennie Nybeck, Fred Frost, A. E. Baumgartner, P. D. Pendleton, W. M. Wyatt, and L. D. Gilbert. Mrs. M. P. Jeter was awarded the attendance prize. The November meeting will be held with Mrs. A. E. Baumgartner.

Sunday In The Churches

BAPTIST

In the absence of the pastor Mr. Charles G. Dobbins will speak at the service Sunday morning. In the evening the congregation will worship with the Methodist Church. Sunday School meets at 9:45 a.m. The Baptist Training Union meets at 6:45 p.m.

Under the direction of the Social Committee of the church a Men's Fellowship Supper will be held at the church on Friday evening, November 4. The supper will be for all the men of the church and all other men who have a preference for our church. There will be no charge, and no collection. Judge Fritz Thompson of Birmingham has been invited to speak.

The monkey sings the British national anthem, "Dardanella" and "Yes, We Have No Bananas."

Carleton scored all its runs in the first half of the last inning. The engagement was supposed to be the first of a double header, started in the morning, lasted until sunset.

GIRL SCOUTS

The Girl Scouts of Troop 2 met in the usual place, the steps of Palmer Hall, on Tuesday afternoon, October 25.

We talked, made plans and appointed committees for the party we are going to have on Friday of next week. Christmas cards were discussed, and it was made clear that the money gotten from the sale of them is to go for personal use such as for uniforms and registration fees.

Later we met in our patrol corners and in party committees. Miss Peck helped us with games; we sang songs and a formal close. Some girls stayed afterward to talk about a breakfast hike for Saturday morning. Miss Frances Ribble, captain, Mrs. A. W. Vaughan, commissioner, Misses Elouise Peck and Frances Roberts, lieutenants, helped us. Girls present were Catherine Adams, Mayo Baker, Virginia Barnes, Tootsie Clayton, Alice Rae Clemons, Irma Cunningham, Annie Mae Davis, Peggy Davis, Mary Jean Kennerly, Sarah Jo Lacey, Billie Louise Mitchell, Frances Nybeck, Carolyn Ray, Sarah Henry Reynolds, Edine Sellers, Pat Weems, Edna Wells, and Dama Wills.

Many Visitors Saw The New Chevrolet

In response to the invitation of Tatum Chevrolet Company, a great many visitors came to their showrooms last Friday night to see the new 1939 Chevrolet. The beauty of this great new automobile was enthusiastically acclaimed by everyone.

The whole Tatum force, headed by Manager Bill Holley, was on hand to entertain the visitors and they made everyone have a jolly good time.

Manager Holley expresses himself as follows about the reception of the new car:

"The reception given the 1939 Chevrolet by the people of Shelby County has been most gratifying and exceeds our highest expectations. We are proud to represent a product which has received such widespread acclaim. We will continue our policy of the best service, always with the assurance — You can't go wrong at Tatum's."

to both the letter and the spirit of the law. Such alibis as "advertising" and "giving something away" can be nothing more than pretense and subterfuge, for the real motive is to make money off the gambling spirit of others.

It seems needless to remind you that good business cannot be built upon the chance basis. Ultimately that will wreck business, rather than build it up. We have only to remember 1929. Substantial and enduring business must be built upon moral ideals and practices, upon brotherhood and good will. Jack pots may add a few dollars to the business of a few people for a short time, but that will be at the expense of someone else. "Trade at home" is an excellent idea and is a proper appeal, but the Golden Rule suggests that it is good for other communities as well as ours.

Let me assure you that I know something of your difficulties. The "recession" coming on before we were out of the "depression," together with added taxes, government regulations, and perhaps the misunderstanding and wrong attitudes of many, have made you lose many hours of sleep and doubtless added many gray hairs to your heads. Your desire to stimulate trade and your enterprising efforts to that end are commendable. In them you have the sympathy and cooperation of all the good citizens of the community. We all want you to succeed in your business. We want Montevallo to go forward in a commercial way. No one wants to do anything to hinder. We just want the progress to be kept on the right basis, that it may be real progress, and not a step backward.

Let me assure you further of my sincere desire to cooperate with you in every way. I shall be glad to meet with you to talk over matters of interest to the community or to your business. I shall be glad to cooperate fully in any worthy effort to stimulate trade and make business better. I believe in you and I am confident that you will remember your moral responsibility to those who trade with you. My desire and purpose is not to criticize but to help. It is my earnest prayer that you may have wisdom to keep your business on a basis of high idealism, that you may have courage to do right at all hazards. In doing so I believe you will win.

Your sincere friend,

FRED B. PEARSON

P.S.—It is my purpose to address an appeal to the people of the community on your behalf next week.—F. B. P.

The chapter voted to cooperate with Studiosis and other community clubs in beautifying the cemetery and providing for a caretaker.

Mrs. Napier presented very interestingly the political geography of the United States in 1887. State boundaries looked strange on the map illustrating the territorial claims of the several states of that period.

The hostess served a delicious salad plate during the social hour to the following members: Mesdames Kennerly, LeBaron, Napier, Wills, Burns, Lyman, Bohn, Vaughan and Dr. Peck.

AGRICULTURAL ADJUSTMENT IN ALABAMA

(By A. W. Jones, Alabama AAA Administrator)

This week we are beginning a series of seven articles on the "domestic allotment" plan which Alabama farmers are hearing so much about. Week by Week we will take up various phases of the plan and discuss them. To obtain full information on this subject, each article should be read. It might be worthwhile to cut each installment out of the paper and keep them all.

One of the fundamental traits of human nature is the desire for change; the restless wish for something we do not have and the readiness with which we forsake the present way of doing things for something that holds promise of being better.

This in itself is not a vicious trait, as indeed all our progress can be traced to a sound, intelligent and constructive use of a desire for improvement. Likewise, most of the world's tragedies have come as a result of faulty thinking, selfishness, or a lack of attention to facts in our exercise of this instinctive wish for something different.

Farmers in the South have never had a more solemn nor farther reaching responsibility than the one they will have to assume this fall when they make up their minds as to what they desire in the way of an agricultural adjustment program. Shall we, without further thought and trial, throw overboard vital parts of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, many of the principles of which we have been striving for for the last fifty years, or shall we recognize its flaws and attempt to work these out with care and patience? Shall we assume that all our thoughts and efforts at farm production adjustment for a generation have been wrong, about face and accept another fundamentally different plan, without thorough analysis, that has its central feature the element of increased production, oversupply, and lower price, from which we have tried so long to free ourselves?

Let's analyze the plan we have, the one that is being advocated most to replace the one we have, consider the strong and weak points of each, find if we can the individuals who are active promoting or sponsoring each, and what will be the probable final outcome of either plan if followed.

The Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938 provides the legislative basis for the program that is being administered by and for southern farmers this year. The principles of this act provides for the widely expressed thought and desire of farmers themselves on cotton production control at profitable price levels, the per cent of tilled land method of making acreage allotments, unrestricted marketing of the production on the allotted acreage for each farm, a penalty on the excess acres of those producers who overplant their allotted acreage and their attempt to profit by their neighbors' sacrifice, benefit payments to farmers who cooperate, protection for small farmers through minimum acreage allotments and marketing quota provisions, encouragement of production of full supplies of food and feed for home use, soil conservation, commodity loans to protect farmers from disastrous drops in prices, and democratic determinations by farmers themselves as to whether the penalty provisions shall apply or not.

The so-called domestic allotment plan is one that is at this time being most widely advocated and promoted most intensively by its proponents to replace the present act. This plan differs radically on most points with the one now in force. Under it there would be no attempt to adjust production to bring about and maintain a profitable price level, no protection to small farmers from the large scale machine operator who would plant all of his acres in cotton, no penalty for any amount of overproduction, and no loans. Soil conservation and the present encouragement to produce ample supplies of food and feed crops at home would be minimized or practically abandoned in the mad race of every farmer to produce more and more cotton in order to have a few more pounds of the total amount going into consumption in this country on which he could get the increased price for domestic allotment. The major part of the crop under this plan would be dumped on the world market if such market would take it for whatever it would bring, and it is safe to assume that the benefit payment under this proposal would not be greater than we now have or could get in connection with a continuance of the present program.

COLLEGE TEAM STARTED TRACY ON THEATRICAL CAREER

Spencer Tracy, after attending military school and college, visited the American Academy of Dramatic Art. Here he began studying to be an actor. After appearing in several Broadway shows and stock companies he ventured into movies where the screen still claims him as a top notch performer. His next picture will be with Hedy Lamarr in "A New York Cinderella."

FARMERS TO VOTE DECEMBER 10 ON MARKETING QUOTAS

Auburn, Ala. — Alabama farmers will vote December 10 on whether they favor the continuation of cotton marketing quotas, but in this referendum they will already have their acreage allotments before they vote, according to an announcement by A. W. Jones, administrative officer of the AAA in Alabama.

Mr. Jones says that allotments are expected to be in the hands of farmers at least a week prior to December 10 so that they will know exactly how many acres they will be permitted to market cotton from under the 1939 program. Last spring the delay by Congress in passing the 1938 farm act made it impossible to get quotas in the hands of farmers and therefore they did not know what their allotments would be when they voted last March.

By having his allotment before the referendum a farmer will not only know just how many acres he will be able to plant, but he will also be in a position to plan his farming operations next year, Jones said.

The present supply of American cotton (over 25,000,000 bales) is one of the largest of all times. The favorable price of 14 cents in 1936 came after three years of adjustment effort and it will require about the same time and effort to adjust the huge supply of cotton left over from the 1936 and 1937 crops. Those who believed the present program would bring the cotton price back up to 12 to 14 cents in one year's time had not checked on the carry-over which made it impossible to adjust the supply in one year, according to Jones.

If the marketing quota is opposed by more than one-third of the growers voting in the referendum, the loan will not be in effect next year and it is logical to expect increased planting and production of cotton, which, added to the present large supply of cotton, will result in extremely low prices, Jones predicted.

HOMEMADE BROODER PLANS AVAILABLE

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama farmers who have heretofore been unsuccessful in brooding and raising a flock of chickens can now take care of from 50 to 75 chicks in any kind of weather with an easily-constructed inexpensive and economically-operated homemade brooder, states D. F. King, associate professor of poultry husbandry at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

This brooder, which can be constructed for around $5 and is heated by a common kerosene lamp, has been in use in Louisiana for a number of years and has proved highly successful in brooding the small number of chicks which are found on the average farm. It eliminates buying expensive brooder equipment and does away with all heating duties except filling the lamp with kerosene.

It is designed to fill the needs on many farms for a brooder to take

HEREFORD BREEDERS FORM ASSOCIATION

Auburn, Ala. — U. C. Jenkins, Faunsdale, was elected president, A. C. Hartley, Mathews, vice president, and Edward Wadsworth, Prattville, secretary-treasurer, of the newly-formed Alabama Hereford Breeders Association, at a meeting held at the farm of Mr. Hartley on October 11.

Directors chosen at the meeting were R. C. Atkins, Heflin, Earnest Lambert, Darlington, and Lee Alley, Midway. This association will assist breeders of Hereford cattle to find a market for their stock and will also assist in building up the pure-bred Hereford cattle industry in the state. As a first objective the association members voted to hold a Hereford cattle sale in April at which only the top cattle in the herds of the state will be offered for sale.

RESULTS OF TESTS ON LEGUMES ARE GIVEN

Auburn, Ala.—Dry weather has hampered winter legume planting in Alabama but there is still time to plant, says J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, in advising farmers that numerous requests have come to him regarding the fertilizer to be applied.

Tests for nine years by the Alabama Experiment Station in all sections of the state have shown that basic slag, rock phosphate, superphosphate, and triple phosphate have been best sources of phosphorus and best legume fertilizers. Basic slag gave an average increase of 4,017 pounds of vetch over check plot; superphosphate gave 3,952; triple superphosphate gave 3,937; and rock phosphate gave 2,978. Colloidal phosphate gave the least increase of all over no phosphate—2,075. Experiments have proved that most Alabama soils need phosphorus for good crop production, including legumes, he said.

SPEAKS IN FLORIDA

Commissioner I. T. Quinn, of the Alabama Department of Conservation, spoke before the Florida State Game and Fish Association at Orlando on October 17. Carl D. Shoemaker, secretary of the General Wildlife Federation, Washington, D. C., also was a speaker at the meeting.

care of from 50 to 75 chicks, or less, states Mr. King. One or more of these simple brooders, which can be constructed in a few hours by the farmer will make it possible to secure chicks early and eliminate excessive losses due to diseases, parasites, varmint, and cold weather. It is built of ordinary lumber, tin, hardware cloth, and poultry wire. Most of these materials can be picked up around most farms and the construction cost further reduced.

The bottom, top, and sides of the brooder are made in sections which makes it easy to clean or move to other locations. It contains a brooder four feet long and a wire-covered sun porch six feet long to allow the chicks plenty of sunshine.

Mr. Kink has just issued a bulletin that gives the bill of material and the methods of construction for this brooder which will serve in helping farmers raise more poultry on the farm. Those interested in obtaining this bulletin should write to D. F. King, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, Ala.

PLACES TO HUNT

The Alabama hunting season will be in full swing in a few weeks. Most of the nimrods will hunt on their own lands or on the lands of friends, but there are many who will wish to go away from their immediate vicinity in search of more and bigger game. The Department of Conservation has a list of places to hunt in Alabama—private lands on which hunting is permitted and where dogs, horses, guides and other accommodations are available. This list is free to all who write for it. Address Department of Conservation, State Capitol, Montgomery, Ala.

Miss Celeste Mitchell has completed a course with the Wayne P. Sewell Producing Company of Atlanta, and is now in Texas to coach the play "Rosetime."

Tyronne Power, Loretta Young and Annabella Cast in Great Picture

Darryl F. Zanuck, the 20th Century-Fox vice-president, who is known for many of the screen's most memorable achievements, is said to have poured all the resources of the company into "Suez." As a result, the picture has so many spectacular elements that people of the most divergent tastes find themselves in complete accord in declaring "Suez" stirring entertainment.

Some are impressed by the amazing Ferdinand de Lesseps, who dreamed of tearing continents apart to join the Mediterranean with the Red Sea that ships might sail the desert in a short route to the East, sought vainly by such heroes as Columbus and Magellan. Driven by the love of two women, de Lesseps strove mightily against the choking sand of the Sahara, crushed the wild Bedouin, and faced the fury of the devil-wind—to wrest from the desert the waterway that today is the jugular vein of the world.

Others find themselves captivated by the great performances of Tyronne Power, as de Lesseps; Loretta Young, as Eugenie; Annabella, as a waif of the desert; and the host of stellar players, including J. Edward Bromberg, Joseph Schildkraut, Henry Stephenson, and others.

Greatest of all, perhaps, is the terrifying simoon. Twisting, torturing, all-destroying—the devil-wind of the desert roars across the screen with a savage fury that makes it one of the most unforgettable spectacles ever seen on film. Leveling everything in its merciless path, the storm is Nature's last mighty effort to stop de Lesseps' great work—and Nature loses.

For sheer spectacle "Suez" is unsurpassed. The Suez Canal was reproduced—a Hollywood miracle. We see the fabulous palaces of desert princes, gay with the swirling skirts of Egyptian dancing girls. We gasp at the devastating Bedouin raid and the sight of a dynamited wall thundering down on hundreds below. We thrill to Disraeli's historic plea before England's House of Commons and rejoice in the ceremonious and glittering opening of the canal, when an empress bestows the Legion of Honor on the man she loves.

It is his ill-starred romance that made de Lesseps so human a figure in all the magnitude of achievement. One cannot help but share the anguish of a man torn between two women—knowing the pitiful, heroic sacrifice of one and the smoldering fires in the heart of the other.

Phillip Dunne and Julien Josephson wrote the screen play of "Suez," based on a story by Sam Duncan. Allan Dwan directed, with Gene Markey associate producer.

Mr. Clifford Gregg of Tuscaloosa was a visitor in town Sunday afternoon.

E. W. MORELAND, REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR BOARD OF REVENUE

To the Voters of the Second District:

I want you to know, if you do not already know, that I am a candidate for member of the county board of Revenue of this district. Furthermore, I wish to say that I want you to vote for me on the 8th day of November, and that I will greatly appreciate your doing so.

In asking for your vote I feel that I am fully qualified to render in the office the kind of public service you have a right to expect from your public officials. My experience and business training has been such as to give me full confidence that I can handle the business of this office to the satisfaction of the people.

I realize the fact that your business in the hands of the Board of Revenue is important to you. It is important as a part of the affairs of Shelby County.

I promise you that I will perform this duty to your satisfaction. I will make your public business and the business of Shelby County my business, and I will look after it with diligence and courtesy to everybody with full regard to the rights of every citizen.

Your support and influence on November 8 will be appreciated. The only reward I can give you is the faithful and full performance of the duties of the office, if entrusted to me.

Respectfully,

E. W. (Whit) MORELAND
(Paid political adv. by E. W. Moreland, Wilton, Ala.)

James Dennis Explains Loan Proceedure

"Farmers in Shelby County seeking rehabilitation loans for the purchase or refinancing of necessary livestock, farm equipment, feed and seed through the Farm Security Administration may apply at the County Rehabilitation Supervisor's office, located upstairs over the old Columbiana Theatre at Columbiana, beginning now," announces James N. Dennis, County Rehabilitation Supervisor.

The office will be open every day during the week from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m., except on Saturdays. It will be open then only until 12:00 o'clock.

Farmers who have been unable to secure adequate credit to place their farms on a satisfactory operating basis are eligible for the rehabilitation loan to provide a new start in farming. The farm occupied, or to be rented, must be large enough to support the family and appear capable of providing a margin of profit necessary for repayment of loans based on sound and practical farm and home plans.

for Vincent on the line: Gardner, Hayle; backfield, Miller and Brantough.

Montevallo will play Clanton this week in Clanton.

FOOTBALL

Montevallo defeated a hitherto undefeated Vincent eleven here Friday afternoon 14-6.

Montevallo had the advantage of a heavier backfield and a hard charging line that held Vincent to only one first down the entire game.

The locals scored in the second and fourth quarters on off-tackle plays with Liddle carrying the pigskin. Williamson converted with an unerring toe.

Vincent scored in the third quarter when Hayle blocked Montevallo's punt, picked it up and ran unopposed for a touchdown.

Outstanding players for Montevallo were on the line: Nix, Mooney and Williamson; in the backfield, Liddle, Lovelady, Dement. Starring

Boyer At His Best In "Algiers"

The colorful activity of a Mediterranean city of Northern Africa forms the background of "Algiers," Walter Wanger's romantic melodrama starring Charles Boyer opposite Sigrid Gurie and Hedy Lamarr in his most exciting role as Pepe le Moko, debonair international jewel thief, at the Strand Theatre Thursday and Friday.

Practically the entire action of the picture takes place in "the Cabash," mysterious native quarter of the capital of Algeria. This district is a haven of refuge for criminals from all countries of Europe, Asia and Africa.

Local color of this romantic spot has been duplicated with uncanny accuracy by studio technicians, and all backgrounds for the action were actually taken in Algiers.

Afforded the best role of his screen career in "Algiers," Boyer delivers an engaging characterization of the debonair jewel thief. The picture takes on added interest through the fact that it marks the first time the star's rich bass-baritone singing voice has been heard on the screen. In addition to Boyer, Miss Gurie, Miss Lamarr, and Calleia, the cast includes Alan Hale, Gene Lockhart, Mme. Nina Koshetz, Robert Greig, Claudia Dell, Bert Roach and many other popular artists. The picture was directed by John Cromwell from a screenplay by John Howard Lawson, with additional dialogue by James M. Cain. The story is by Detective Ashelbe.

who have unselfishly devoted their time and efforts toward the upbuilding of our community. Largely through their splendid influence and leadership, our city has not only developed economically, but educationally, spiritually and socially as well. The natural result has been that many families of the highest type have been attracted to our city, possibly at first temporarily while sending their children to school and later to remain with us as an integral part of us. We feel that we have every right to be very proud of our city and that we are entitled to the best in modern developments which other cities of this size enjoy. Such improvements, as the establishment of such a modern telephone system, will be a big factor in our continued progress.

We who have spent most of our lives in the smaller cities have at times looked longingly over the fence toward what appeared to be greener pastures in the larger cities. However, we in Montevallo at least, have awakened to the fact that after all, we either have or may obtain practically all of the advantages, necessities and luxuries enjoyed by our larger city neighbors. For example, we can get the same radio programs as they, we have our splendid churches, schools, talking motion pictures, automobiles and other means of good transportation, and hard surface roads. We enjoy the benefits of electricity, refrigeration and many other modern conveniences in our homes, as well as dozens of other things which have become so commonplace that we scarcely give them a thought.

In addition to these advantages, we have that close personal contact, friendship and love for those about us which unfortunately, is so often denied to our larger city dwellers. We can go to our own local stores and obtain practically everything that we can buy in the larger cities. In this connection, we feel that a big responsibility rests with our local merchants to continually study the needs of our people as well as the art of modern merchandising because we in the smaller cities appreciate quality, cleanliness and up-to-date merchandise attractively displayed just as much as our larger city neighbors. As our local business houses offer us these advantages, it seems to this paper that there is an obligation on the part of our people to patronize them because we all realize that good modern business establishments are the very foundation of an enterprising town or small city.

With the splendid leadership and the fine spirit of cooperation and coordination that exists in Montevallo, we will continue to strive to make our city a better and a happier place in which to live. Such a development as this new modern dial telephone system is a great step forward and no doubt this change will be an incentive and an inspiration for further modern improvements.
